Red Rose Holsteins hold annual field day

About 400 members of dairy farm families attended the Lancaster County Holstein Club field day Thursday. The cow judging contest was one of the day's highlights.

BY CURT HARLER

ELIZABETHTOWN — A perfect score in the judging contest and an update on embryo transplants from a local veterinarian highlighted the Lancaster Holstein Field day held Thursday near Elizabethtown.

John Cope, Grantham, manager of Ashcombe's Dairy, scored a perfect 150 points in placing three classes of cows in the annual judging contest.

Dr. Alan McCauley of Em-Tran, Embryo Transfer, Inc., told dairymen the embryo transfer system has been perfected to a point where a healthy donor cow has an 85 percent chance of producing a pregnancy.

Dr. McCauley addressed a group of about 400 dairymen and their families attending the annual meeting held this year at the Robert H. Kauffman family's Penn Springs Farms, R1 Elizabethtown.

Dr. McCauley said a healthy donor cow will give six to seven eggs at a flushing, although the range of egg production ranges from zero to 34 eggs.

With the 85 percent success ratio on breeding, Dr. McCauley said farmers could expect about four pregnancies from a flushing.

He recommended farmers use mature cows, not virgin heifers or first calf heifers as donors for flushing.

"There should be no risk from flushing a donor cow," he told the group, although there may be a temporary loss of 10 to 15 percent in milk production.

Em-Tran has been involved in over 2000 pregnancies. Dr. McCauley said best results come with a superior cow who is reproductively sound and has showed she can throw good dairy traits.

Farmers had the opportunity to look at a number of sound cows during the morning cow judging session.

First place in the men's division and overall high score was turned in by John Cope, president of the State Holstein Association.

Second place went to Rick Hess, Strasburg; third, Robert Pepple, Oxford, who obviously was in close agreement with the show judge — his wife, Jane; fourth place went to Lloyd Sensenig, Quarryville; and

Holly given time to submit plans

MT. HOLLY SPRINGS — Holly Milk Producers Cooperative was given 15 additional days to file a complete facility permit application with the Department of Environmental Resources, Bureau of Water Quality, according to a department spokesman.

This permit application was originally scheduled to be filed no later than August 1 as called for by the February 29 Consent Order and Agreement.

According to Lee Yohn, Compliance Specialist, Bureau of Water Quality Management, Harrisburg Regional Office, the milk cooperative submitted their application on Friday, July 25. However it was incomplete.

"There were several items lacking, but the major thing missing was the Pollution Incident Prevention Plan. We've given them 15 days to get the completed application to us," said Yohn.

Under the stipulations of the February ruling, Holly agreed to meet effluent criteria established under the state's Department of Environmental Resources discharge permit.

Since that time, Holly has been required to submit monthly progress reports on plans to upgrade their treatment plant.

In March, the preliminary engineering plans were due, said Yohn.

On Wednesday of this week, Ivo V. Otto, director of the Cooperative, said everything for the permit was in order.

When asked about the recent reports that the treatment plant was not functioning properly and was allowing some effluent to discharge into Mountain Creek, the director stated that this was "erroneous information."

"The discharges are pretty well meeting the requirements," he said. "Somedays we're under them, and sometimes we're over."

DER's Yohn, however, pointed out that in the month of March the cooperative was penalized $4000 for effluent violations. The penalties were levied at $250 for each day the effluent was in excess of the limitations.

Monitoring the discharge is done both by the Cooperative and DER. Yohn stated the limitations for Holly are 18 milligrams per liter for Biochemical Oxygen

Herr shows grand champion hog

BY SHEILA MILLER

LANCASTER — Christian Herr, Narvon, showed this year's grand champion hog at the 18th Annual Lancaster County FFA Market Hog Show, held Thursday at the Lancaster Union Stockyards.

The 225 pound Duroc was the champion hog in its weight class and the middleweight champ before being selected by Judge Henry Gruber of A & B Packing as the best hog in the show.

Herr, who will be attending Penn State in the Fall as an agicultural engineering student, purchased the hog at the Lancaster Swine Producers Sale earlier this Spring. It was out of the pen of pigs shown and sold by Clyde McConaughy, Smicksburg.

In his four years of showing hogs here in Lancaster, Herr said this is his first grand championship. He smiled as he recalled his first year of showing when he took home the reserve champion honors. In the interim, he said, he has always done well, but not enough for a championship.

What made the difference this year? Herr said he just made sure his hog had "a lot of exercise and enough feed." He added that he weighed it pretty often, especially the last two weeks before the show

Herr sold his grand champion to Hatfield Packing for $3.30 a pound.

The reserve grand champion hog was exhibited by Shawn Charles, from Penn Manor FFA. The Duroc x Hampshire crossbred weighed 205 pounds.

Charles' hog was the champion lightweight hog and its class champion. It too was purchased by Hatfield Packing for $1.60 per pound.

Charles also exhibited the open champion market hog and the reserve champion in the middleweight class, while Herr exhibited the reserve champion in the heavyweight class. The

Mushroom meeting spawns ideas, but little action

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN

AVONDALE — "In the last five years there has been a sixty-seven per cent increase in mushroom imports", Alden Hopkins, Delaware's Secretary of Agriculture said. "The fresh market for mushrooms is not elastic enough to absorb such an increase."

Hopkins was addressing a group of mushroom growers Tuesday evening during a meeting sponsored by the Chester County Farmers Union at the Silver Springs Restaurant, here.

Hopkins said that "Twelve domestic firms once handling mushrooms in 1974 have now disappeared."

The second concern of the industry which Hopkins voiced was the many chemical substances prohibited in the U.S. which are thought to be in use in foreign countries, including DDT. "We have no knowledge of the chemicals used in growing mushrooms in the foreign countries," he said.

Dr. Robert Tetrault, an entymologist from Penn State, explained problems of finding insecticides which are effective in the mushroom industry, collecting data on residue and other side effects, and then getting these chemicals approved, registered and used by growers.

Local growers at the meeting expressed a third concern, the lack of

August proclaimed county poultry month

MAYTOWN — August has been proclamed Poultry Month by the Lancaster County Commissioners.

The commissioners signed the proclamation at their last July meeting and on Tuesday toured the egg production facility owned by the John H. Hershey family, R1 Marietta.

The commissioners noted Lancaster County ranks first in Pennsylvania in number of laying hens and broilers, and fifth in the nation in broilers.

In addition, the proclamation said, the county poultry business provides nourishment for over three million people to the tune of $100 million.

A female eastern cottontail rabbit can raise up to six litters a year, each averaging five to seven young, says the National Geographic Society. Thus, if all her broods lived and reproduced, she would at the end of five years have established an empire of 2.5 billion bunnies.

Smoothing the way in farm financing.

(Top) Steve Leiser, Pennfield Representative, examines financial records with Bill Shirey, Meadow Brook Farms, York, Pa. (Bottom) Paul Whipple, Pennfield Customer Finance Manager, and C. David Landis, Lititz, Pa after successful meeting at the bank

With the financial row a bit rougher to hoe lately, it helps to have a friend who's friendly with the bank. Someone who knows your work. A financial advisor who can deliver that extra confidence you deserve. All Pennfield Feed customers have access to this kind of financial help. And you'll be pleasantly surprised to know that our financial advisors know cows. They know feeds. Something the numbers people at the bank appreciate ... along with the way the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service can help you reduce waste. And here's how this money-saving service works: 1. We collect samples of your forage. 2. Then we evaluate the quality of your forage. We determine the total digestible nutrients. The fiber content. The protein content. The amount of carbohydrates. 3. The computer quickly spots any nutrients lacking in the forage. For your milking cows. And for your dry cows. It immediately points out the overfeeding of nutrients. Underfeeding, too. Both, of course, may be different at different times of the year. And the printout will tell you what you need. And when. 4. Your Penn Pro Professional advises you on the quantity and type of nutrients that should be added, to balance your total feeding program to your cows' nutritional requirements.

Try the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service. For better milk yields. For better profits. There's no cost or obligation. Just phone us today at Pennfield Feeds. Local calls: Lancaster 299-2561, Red Lion 244-4511. In 717 and 215 areas dial toll-free 800-732-0467. Pennfield Feeds, Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster, PA 17604.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 4-10, 1980

You can sail, but then there's a gale

Let cucumbers nearest the root remain for source of next year's seeds New moon Aug 10 (the annular eclipse of the sun on Aug 10 will be visible as a partial eclipse from the southwestern U S) Average length of days for the week, 14 hours, 14 minutes

First commercial vessel on Great Lakes Aug 7 1679 Well begun is half done

Ask the Old Farmer I just bought an old piece of stoneware called a porringer It has a handle on it, but it is too big to be a cup What was it used for? Y S Cleveland

It s a soup or stew bowl There was once a happy day when it was permissible for a man to tilt up his soup bowl to get the last spoonful The handle on the side was for giving it a lift in order to get the last drop

Home Hints Scorch spots on linen may often disappear when placed in hot sunlight all day

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Mild, with showers, to start, middle through end of week is clear and hot, showers north

Greater New York-New Jersey: Showers and warm through mid-week, then sunny and seasonal through weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Showers south, sunny north at start, then partly cloudy, hot, and few showers by week's end

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Thundershowers start the week, then partly cloudy, hot, showers north middle through end of week

Easy, Effective, Economical Fly Control . . . Even Face Flies!

COW LIFE-CATTLE RUB®
Made for cattle—by a cattleman
Proven on millions and millions of cattle.

The RUB has completely solved our fly problems for the last several years! We run about 800 registered and commercial mother cows
Hubby Griner
Columbia, Mississippi

Easier-to-use—Simply hang the 10 foot RUB, pour on about four gallons of insecticide solution and let the RUB do the rest It's that easy! And many users report treating the Cow Life Cattle RUB less than once a month

More Effective — Just one pass under the rub gives animals the insecticide protection they need It really takes the work out of fly and lice control Millions of cattle have proven how simple it is

More Economical — it costs less to start with and it's made of DuPont Orlon and acrylic so it's virtually rot proof! Plus it saves labor insecticide and an awful lot of trouble

And if face flies are a problem to you . The FACE FLYPS offer effective face fly control These special DuPont Orlon "FLYPS" wick insecticide solution directly from the RUB and insure that the insecticide is where it is needed for effective face fly control on the animal's face Each pack contains 22 FLYPS which require about 3 minutes to attach to the RUB Order one pack per RUB

Lancaster Farming says...

Census packs two big shockers

There are a few surprising statistics in the preliminary census of agriculture released by the U S Department of Commerce

The first is the sudden appearance of an extra 25,776 acres of farmland in Lancaster County.

The second is that dairying no longer is the number one farm industry in Lancaster County.

There are some other interesting numbers in the report, too.

Before looking at each of the developments it might be well to point out that the data are "preliminary," from the 1978 census of agriculture The Commerce Department, which does the census, takes a good bit of time to digest all the data gathered and this is only the first spewing out of numbers.

The Lancaster County report is part of the general Pennsylvania ag census which placed sales of all farm products in Pennsylvania at $2.2 billion

Dairying remained tops state-wide, with product sales of $762 7 million from 16,026 cows. That seems acceptable.

But none of the agricultural, tax, or elected officials in Lancaster County was able to pinpoint where the additional 25,000 acres came from . . . if indeed they exist. In every case, agricultural experts noted the erosion of the farmland base in Lancaster

Best guess from the Census is improved methods of gathering data resulted in the big jump in farmland reported. Similar incidents have been noted In the 1974 census neighboring state West Virginia showed an amazing increase in acreage. The jump later dwindled to almost nothing under close rechecking.

The bottom line? Don't count on picking up any of that "extra" land if you're planning on expanding your operation.

The second surprise to many Lancaster farmers will be the fall of the county dairy industry from first to second place.

The poultry industry is reported as number one in total value of products sold.

The agriculture census shows poultrymen outsold dairy farmers by over $26 5 million Total poultry reciepts were put at $130,580,000.

There are a couple of cautions before poultry is crowned king of the county. First is the uneasyness raised by the question of the farmland figures. If the product sales numbers are as far off base as the acreage figures, there may be a major adjustment yet to come

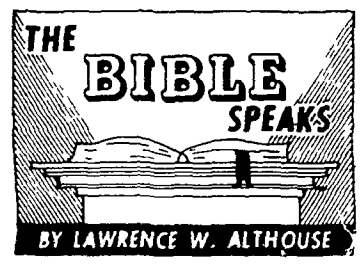
The second is the Census shows total sales of poultry products in the county as nearly doubling in four years The 1974 figures say the poultry industry had just $75,181,000 worth of product sold And in recent months, poultry has been depressed

Still, $26 million is a lot of money for dairy to make up. It looks like Lancaster has a new farm industry leader, and congratulations are in order

Pennsylvania farmers will be pleased to know the census says they are getting younger. Average age of state farmers dropped from 50 6 years to 49 8 years

Welcome ladies—2881 state farms are operated by women. That's a full five percent of the state's 59,973 farms

Other tidbits 91 percent of farms are owner operated, of the 981 farm corporations, 864, or 88 percent, are family held, just seven percent of state farms report sales of $100,000 or more, the largest single group, 38,822 had sales of less than $20,000



LET GOD BE GOD!

Lesson for August 3, 1980

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 45 through 47
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 96

Here's a text that has never found its way into Sunday sermons:

"Thus says the Lord to his annointed, to Cyrus. . ."

The reason for its unpopularity is that word "annointed," which menas Messiah! If Isaiah heard God rightly, the Lord is saying that Cyrus, the King of Persia, is his Messiah! There must be some mistake! Surely God would not say something like that! Are we to explain this away as a senile lapse of divine memory? God, Don't you know that Cyrus can't be your Messiah? Don't you realize there is only one Messiah and that Cyrus never even acknowledged you as Lord?

To Subdue Nations

Well, the fact is that, as it was revealed to Isaiah (the otherwise trustworthy prophet of the Lord), God did regard Cyrus of Persia as his annointed, his Messiah. And, even though Cyrus did not know this God, the Lord was able to use this man for his divine purposes: " . Cyrus, whose right arm I have grasped, to subdue nations before him and ungird the loins of kings, to open doors before him that gates may not be closed" (45·1)

Once again, as we have noted previously, God is able to work in the affairs of men and nations to accomplish his purposes, to use unwilling and unwitting people to fulfill his plan. But we don't particularly like that idea, we'd like to remind God that this is not one of his better ideas, for these people are not worthy to be his instruments in the world, let alone to be regarded as his "annointed."

Our perennial problem here is that we tend to forget that he is God and we are the creatures, that his wisdom is what controls the world, not ours. We need constantly to be reminded to let God be God and stop trying to take his place. If he wants to annoint Cyrus or anyone else to do his will, who are we to second-guess him?

Striving With Our Maker

Yet, that is what his creatures have been doing since day-one And that is why through Isaiah God used strong words to remind us: "Woe to him who strives with his Maker, an earthen vessel with the potter! Does the clay say to him who fashions it, 'what are you making?' or 'Your work has no handles?' Will you question me about my children, or command me concerning the work of my hands?"

Well, yes, Lord, sometimes we do. Sometimes we need for you to remind us: "I made the earth, and created man upon it; it was my hands that stretched out the heavens, and I commanded all their host" (45·12). So if you want to call Cyrus your Messiah or anything else, Lord, go right ahead! It's your world!

Actually, it is not a matter of letting God by God, for he will be anyway, but of remembering who we are and what he is.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO COMMUNICATE WITH LEGISLATORS

How long has it been since, you, as a farmer, have been in contact with your Senator, Congressman, or Representative?

I fear that too many of us are reluctant to inform our legislators how we feel on certain issues Yet we expect them to represent us and support legislation to our satisfaction

It often has been said that farmers do not make enough "noise" when it comes to agricultural legislation. This is no doubt true, but it should not be that way

You have heard the phrase, "The wheel that squeaks gets the grease " I feel that too many times those who sound off the loudest do not represent the majority views of our farmers.

Don't hesitate to be on good terms with your elected legislators; they will appreciate your opinions and it will help them with their major decisions

TO CHECK LIGHTNING RODS

This summer has been one for a great number of severe thunder storms

Folks who have rods on their buildings can feel fortunate for this protection. However, if the rods are not properly installed and well grounded, they may be of little value

I'd like to suggest that owners check their rod systems to be sure they are free of debris and be sure they are grounded into moist soil Too many times they may not be grounded deeply enough to absorb the charge

During hot, dry weather the ground dries out and may not get the job done Frequent inspection of the rod system during the thunder-storm season is very much in order.

TO KEEP GOOD PESTICIDE RECORDS

Several times this summer I have inquired about the name and amount of a certain spray material that was applied to a certain crop. This information is often needed in the planning of the future crops on a field.

To my surprise, the farmer did not recall what had been applied and the amount — it was some material recommended by another person

Again, we say that it is important to keep accurate record of all pesticide applications. In case a surplus residue is found in the product, these records could mean the difference between continued production, or the loss of a market.

Record blanks are available and we continue to feel they should be used Documentation is becoming very important in many phases of today's farming and living.

TO BEWARE OF JOHNSONGRASS SEEDS

The control of Johnsongrass needs and is getting more attention

This fast-growing weed, which resembles sorghum, spreads rapidly over a farm and will soon make it difficult to grow any crops.

When these plants get to the point of developing seedheads, extra care is needed to keep from spreading the seeds over a field. This often happens with a corn picker, or grain combine Small grain fields that have Johnsongrass stands should be allowed to grow to the early seed-head stage and then be sprayed with Roundup

Be careful about buying straw or other materials from a field containing any Johnsongrass plants.

A plant that is permitted to mature this summer will mean hundreds of plants in the same area next spring Join the effort to eradicate Johnsongrass from all farms

Farmers have until Aug. 18 to comment on dairy supports

LITITZ — The public has until August 18 to comment on the level of price support for milk for the 1980-81 marketing year which begins October 1, said Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Jim Williams.

Williams said USDA also is asking for public comment on the prices and terms of purchase by Commodity Credit Corporation of butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk.

Current law requires the milk price support be established at between 80 and 90 percent of parity on October 1 each year. USDA officials estimate the minimum level of support (80 percent of parity) will be $12.73 per hundredweight on October 1 for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content.

This would be an increase of 66 cents over the support price which became effective on April 1. It could result in a 5 to 6 cent-per-gallon increase in milk prices at the retail level

Other matters pertaining to the milk support program on which USDA may make decisions and on which the public may comment are. the manufacturing margins used in calculating the purchase prices of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk; the allocation of any change in the support price for milk affecting the purchase prices set for butter and nonfat dry milk; and the level of the sales prices of CCC-owned dairy products.

Comments must be in writing and received no later than August 18 by the Director, Procurement and Sales Division, Room 5741 South Building, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U S. Department of Agriculture, Box 2415, Washington, D.C., 20013.

The comments will be available for public inspection during regular business hours. Copies of the impact statement and the backgrounder also are available upon request.

Hepatitis reported locally

LANCASTER — The State Health Center has been getting a number of reports of hepatitis (yellow jaundice) among the rural community.

There are some guidelines to follow to prevent the spread of the disease. You are most likely to spread the hepatitis virus before you get sick. You can assume there are a number of carriers or cases in every gathering.

The virus is carried in the intestinal tract, not in the air, therefore it is important to observe the following rules:

Wash all dishes, drinking cups, and utensils in hot, soapy water after each use. Wash hands with soap and water after going to the bathroom and before handling food.

Visit your doctor if the disease is suspected so that he can advise you on treatment He may want to give gamma gloublin to the rest of the family to prevent them from getting as severe a case of the disease and to help to limit the spread of disease.

Doris Kolb, public health nurse, has been visiting in a number of homes where there has been illness and if you have any questions you may call her or Ethel Hershey at 717/299-7597 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Wheat harvest seen at all time high

LANCASTER — A record 1980 U.S. winter wheat harvest — 1.85 billion bushesl — is near completion while combining begins on a drought-stricken spring wheat crop.

As of July 1, total 1980 wheat production is forecast at a record 2.32 billion bushels, up eight percent from 1979. This wheat will be reaped from the largest area planted in 30 years, with 10 million more acres likely to be harvested than in 1979.

Chances are two out of three that the final crop outcome will be within 80 million bushels of the July estimate.

On the strength of the large crop, total U.S. wheat supply in 1980-81 will be an all time high 3.22 billion bushels. However, based on a projected record large disappearance — a small increase in domestic use and record exports — 1980-81 year end stocks may only increase slightly from the 901 million bushels of a year earlier.

On the world scene, improved crop prospects indicate 1980 wheat production may reach 444 million metric tons, substantially above 1979's short outturn but shy of a new record. It is expected that the United States, Western Eurpoe, the USSR, Eastern Europe, and Pakistan will harvest larger crops, while reduced production is currently projected for Canada, China, India, and Australia.

On the basis of greater demand in many importing countries and the need for stock rebuilding, world wheat trade in 1980-81 will likely be up over two million tons from 1979-80 to a record 86 million tons

Based on these trade projections, the United States, which will have large exportable supplies, could ship a record 1.45 billion bushels overseas in 1980-81. Much will depend on supplies available from exporting countries and their export sales policies. The large increase in purchases by China and the absence of sales to the Soviet Union highlight early season U.S. trade.

Wheat prices opened the 1980-81 season in a relatively bearish atmosphere compared with the rapid price advances during last year's harvest.

Farm prices were 20 to 40 cents per bushel lower, reflecting the prospective large crop. Concern about adverse weather impacts on crop development, particularly in spring wheat areas of the United States and Canada, prospects for continued strong exports, and producers' initial slow selling lent support to prices during July.

For 1980-81, average farm prices are projected to range from $3 75 to $4.25 per bushel. Last year's average was $3.82.

The word "record" adequately sums up the recently completed 1979-80 market year. Wheat exports, total disappearance, yield per acre, food use, seed use, Hard Red Winter production, and world wheat trade all reached new highs. And, both production and supply were near records.

Northampton breeders cite top Holsteins

BY VIVIAN PAUL
Staff Correspondent

BANGOR — Holsteins from Keystone Farm, Easton, won top honors last week at Northampton County's Black and White Show, a highlight of the Plainfield Farmer's Fair.

Grand champion honors went to Keystone Joyful Marina, a six-year old who was reserve champion last year. Keystone Joyous Barb, a three year old, was named this year's reserve champion.

The wins for Keystone and the Donald Seipt family, came just a few weeks after six of their cows, including several show winners, were killed by lightning.

Elwood Fox, and his son Bruce, of Pond Hollow Farm, Bangor, were named premier breeder and exhibitor of the show. Junior Breeder award went to Thomas Weber of Bethlehem.

There were over 100 entries in this year's show. Amos Rudderow of Mar-Haven Farm, Mt. Laurel, New Jersey, was the judge.

Classes for mature cows were· Dry cows - Upstream Farm, Easton; Pond Hollow. 2-year Old - Keystone, Sterling Fabian, Bethlehem; Pond Hollow. 3 year old - Keystone, Harold Fabian, Bethlehem; Michel, Fulmer, Nazareth. 4 year old - Harold Fabian, Pond Hollow, Thomas Weber. Aged cow - Keystone, Mack Farms, Pen Argyl. Best Udder, Keystone, Pond Hollow. Senior Champion - Keystone.

Senior Get of Sire - Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation.

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN — Twenty-nine 4-H Clothing members competed at the North Schuylkill Vo-Tech School in the 1980 Schuylkill County Fashion Revue.

This year all entrants were female for the first time in a few years. Five clubs were represented. They were the: Nuremberg 4-H Club, Weishample Cloverettes, Lewistown Valley 4-H Club, St. Clair Eager Beavers, and the Auburn Cheerful Workers.

There were two local judges for the event, which included judging the construction of the garment, fit and style, along with the girl's poise and modeling ability. The judges were Marion Miller, Schuylkill Haven, and Mary Beth Gombar of St. Clair. Both judges have broad experience in the area of clothing construction.

Twelve finalists were selected to represent Schuylkill County in the Regional Fashion Revue. In the junior category the 6 finalists were: Kathy Bromwell, Auburn Cheerful Workers, who made a wool skirt; Nancy Lutz of Nuremberg 4-H and Pamela Kimmel of Weishample Cloverettes who made cotton skirts; Dawn Spiece of Nuremberg 4-H, who made a skirt and vest; Sandy Ludwig, Weishample Cloverettes, a sundress; and Karen Roberts of Lewistown Valley 4-H, who made a skirt and blouse.

Senior division winners included: Stephanie Webber, Auburn Cheerful Workers; Sandra Achenbach and Lori Delker, St. Clair Eager Beavers — all three sundresses; Gail Header, Frances Shuey, and Esther Sweigart, all of Weishample Cloverettes were selected for their dresses.

Chris Temple of Hegins served as narrator for the evening's fashion show. Mary Nevenglosky, nutrition aide supervisor, presented a demonstration on bread baking for parents and leaders.

Ruth Funk, Assistant Director for the Northeast Region of extension presented the awards.

Red meat production down

HARRISBURG — Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending July 19 were 2,049,000, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service

The placements were six percent below the corresponding week a year earlier, and one percent below the previous week. Average placements during the past nine weeks were two percent below a year earlier.

Placements in the 21 key poultry producing states were 77,574,000, one percent below the previous week and the same week a year earlier. Average placements during the past nine weeks were two percent below a year ago.

Farm nuisance bill may cover processors, too

BY CURT HARLER

HARRISBURG — Support continues to grow to include food processors under the provisions of the farm nuisance ordinance protection bill, HB 1794.

That bill, which passed the Pennsylvania House before the summer recess and now is in the State Senate, would protect farms from ordinances interfering with normal farming practices.

Such things as manure odors, dust from lime, and noise from lambs could not be outlawed by any local municipality should HB 1794 become law.

A new version of the bill would broaden the definition of agricultural operation to include "any agricultural endeavor that uses land for the production and/or processing of any and all plant and animal products which are produced or processed for commercial purposes."

The change has the support of the Pennsylvania Grange, Pennsylvania Farmers' Union and the State Food Processors Association.

The change, included in the new printer's number 3487, does not extend unlimited coverage to all processors.

Rocco Pugliese, who represents the Pennsylvania Food Processors, noted the amendment would apply only to a few of the state's processors, and then to only some of the crops they process.

Pugliese, who represent fruit, vegetable, and mushroom processors, said the amendment is based primarily upon principle.

He said agriculture is not 100 percent growers but includes processors. He noted that any erosion in farmers' marketing outlets would see the growers undone.

He pointed out the difficulties experienced by 160 growers in the Milton area when American Home Foods left the area. Most of those growers were picked up by other processors.

The amendment to HB 1794 limits protection under the amendment to those plants which have their own agricultural operation and produce 51 percent of that commodity on their farm.

Knouse Foods, a fruit processing co-op in Adams County, would be one of those to reap broadest benefits since its members produce most of what is processed there. Other processors like Furman's or Charles Summers, Inc., also would benefit on a limited number of crops.

Support for HB 1794, and for the amendment covering processors, is being talked up through the House and Senate halls, as well as to Administration leadership.

The basic goal is to provide smooth sailing for the measure when the state legislature readies to act on it a month from now.

Wayne Jr. Livestock sale coming

HONESDALE — The 4th Annual Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale will be held on Saturday, August 9 at 7 p.m., here at the Fair Grounds.

Local 4-H and FFA members will be selling their prize project animals. There will be approximately 20 steers, 50 market hogs, and 40 market lambs run across the auction block.

Absentee bids can be sent through local 4-H leaders or the County Extension Service. Transportation and processing arrangements can be requested.

LEADERS IN REVERSE CAGE RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT

LESS BIRD STRESS

The system has been designed for bird comfort!

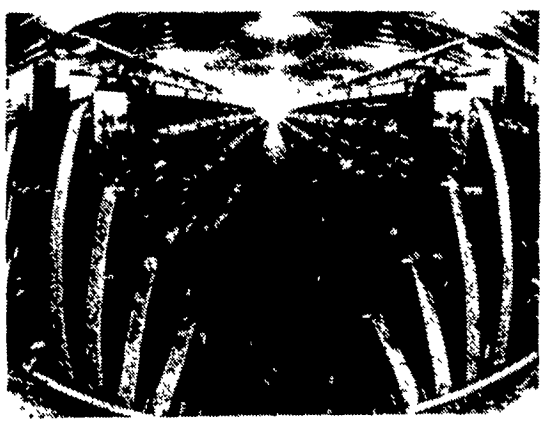
Each bird has her place at the feed trough. Each has easy access to water Obstruction to light and the flow of air have been greatly reduced, providing more uniform ventilation and lighting for every bird Combined with Chore-Time's automatically controlled air inletting system, you get a layer house environment designed for bird comfort and the resulting better production



Not only the physical shape of the feed trough, but the operation of the feeder has been engineered to reduce feed waste The trough shape cuts down on feed loss from "raking" and "billing," while the feeder has been specifically designed for Chore-Time's programmed and performance feeding concept

★ LET US SHOW YOU A REVERSE CAGE SYSTEM IN OPERATION

The Air System With A Mind Of Its Own

Until now, most ventilation systems had one drawback. Air inlets had to be opened and closed by hand.

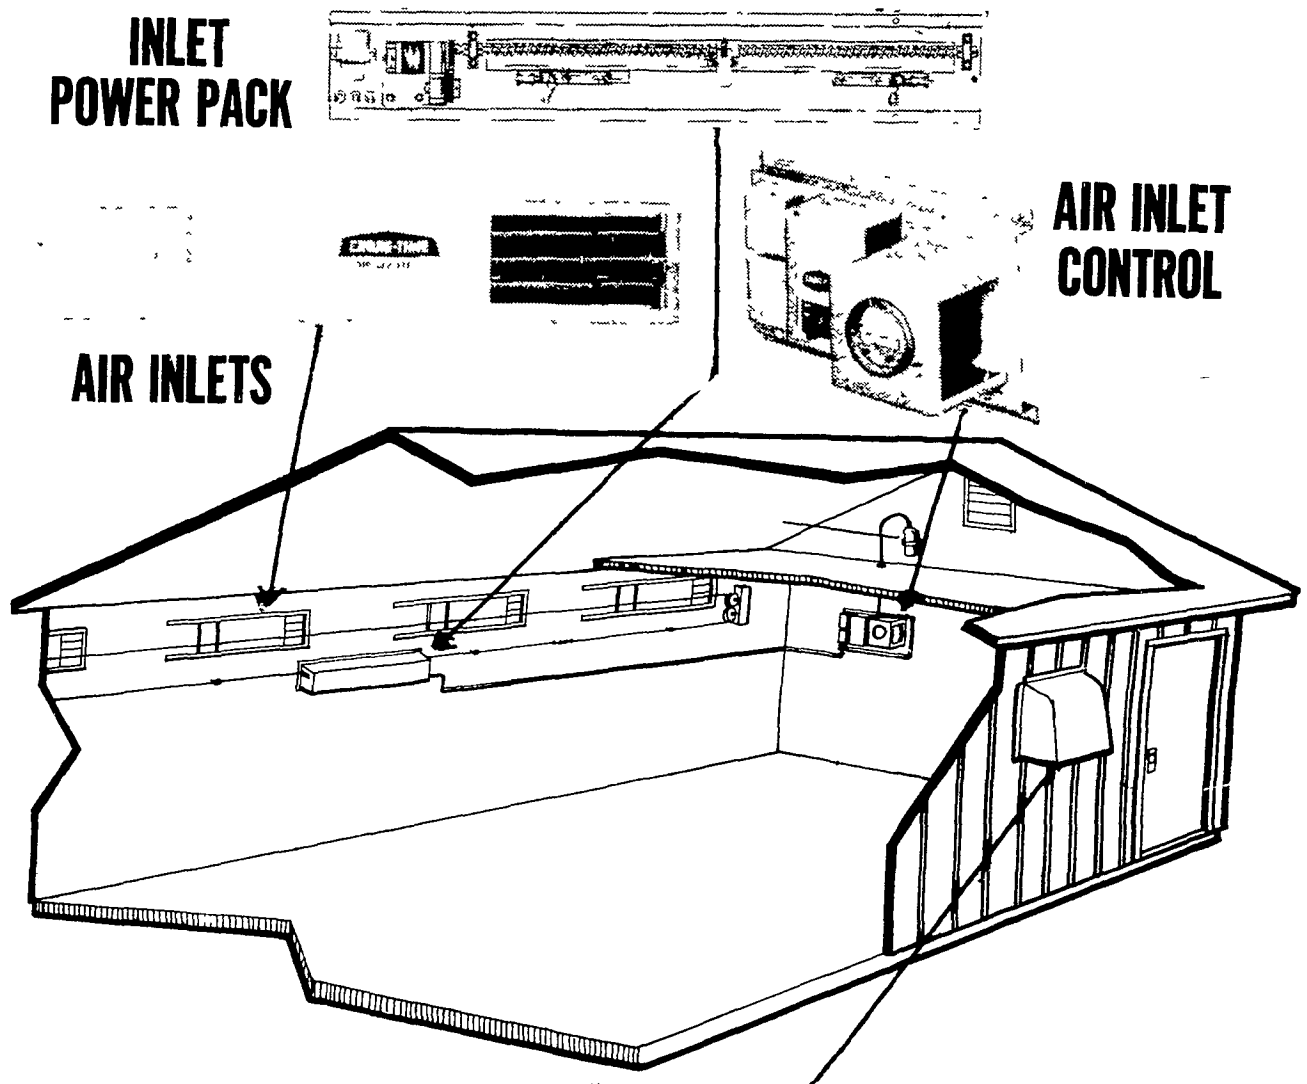
This was time consuming — and pretty much a matter of guesswork.

Now, Chore-Time has eliminated this problem.

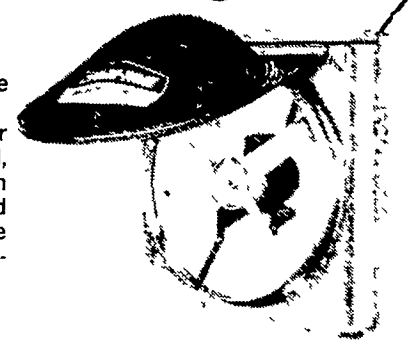
The Chore-Time system has a mind of its own and adjusts inlets — in conjunction with fan operation — to maintain air pressure at a constant, preset level.

This provides a degree of air and moisture accuracy never before possible in poultry and livestock buildings.

The new inlet control (pictured) is just one of many exclusive features that make Chore-Time air systems number one in performance and reliability.



Four basic components go into the makeup of this ventilation system the fan, the inlet, the air inlet power pack, and the controls Coordinated, these four basic components can provide you with better conversion and performance by removing stresses due to lack of oxygen, excess humidity, noxious gases and temperature extremes



Reliability through simplicity, Chore-Time's advanced air system provides automatic control of incoming fresh air, moisture and heat for productive environmental control in agricultural buildings

Nat'l Cattlemen's president optimistic about future

LODGEPOLE, Neb. — What is the nation's largest industry?

If you asked the man on the street, he'd probably say it's the automobile industry. But he'd be wrong. It's agriculture.

The assets of agriculture total more than $950 billion — a sum equal to about three-fifths of the capital assets of all corporations in the United States.

Not only is agriculture the single largest part of our economy, it also exerts a tremendous influence on all other parts. For every job on the farm or ranch, there are three more in related supply and processing businesses. As a matter of fact, one out of every five jobs in private enterprise is related to agriculture and agribusiness.

A man who knows his agriculture is Merlyn Carlson, a third generation cattleman from Lodgepole, Nebraska. He's president of the National Cattlemen's Association, representating 300,000 professional cattlemen across the United States. The cattle industry, incidentally, is the largest part of agriculture

Carlson comes from hearty stock His grandfather came to America from Sweden in the 1880's and, after a brief stop-over in Iowa, homesteaded the Nebraska ranch which Carlson and his family still operate today

In addition to the ranch, Merlyn and his father run a commercial feedlot at nearby Chappel, Nebraska

A taciturn man with a dry sense of humor, Carlson remembers with fondness his boyhood days on the ranch. He had to carry his own weight then — as he expects his own three children to carry theirs today.

"Ranch kids have always worked right along side of the hired hands," he says, "and they still do today — at least mine do."

While attending college at Colorado State University, Carlson proved he was no dime store cowboy. He developed something of a reputation for his calf roping abilities — and even used some of his first winnings to buy the wedding ring he gave to his wife, Janice.

Carlson's not a boastful man. But he's quietly proud of the fact that his fellow cattlemen elected him to head up the strongest and most respected national organization of cattlemen in the country.

In recent months cattlemen have been going through some hard times. They may be harder hit by inflation and tight money than just about any other group in our society. But is Carlson pessimistic?

Not to hear him talk, he isn't

"Americans love their beef," he says. "They always have, and they always will. Right now cattlemen are going through some tough times. But we'll pull out of it and keep

Farm Bureau doesn't like higher grain loan levels

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The American Farm Bureau Federation today voiced concern over higher loan levels on wheat, corn, other grains and soybeans announced by President Carter.

John C. Datt, secretary and administrator of the federation who attended the White House meeting where the announcement was made, noted that President Carter did administratively precisely what the U.S. Senate did last Friday in calling for an upward adjustment of loan levels on grains and soybeans.

Datt said, "We are pleased that the White House did not try to outdo the congressional action in this election year.

"The administration's additional increase in the farmer-owned reserve release and call prices could have the effect of directing more grain into the reserve than into domestic and international market channels," Datt warned.

He added: "It is clear that the Senate action last week prompted the White House move today but any further boost in loan rates beyond this point could be terribly disruptive to the competitiveness of U.S. grain and soybeans and could price American farmers right out of the market place."

Bean growers applaud increased loan level

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — American Soybean Association (ASA) President Allan Aves came from a meeting with President Jimmy Carter on Monday, applauding Carter's announcement of support for an increase in the soybean loan level from $4.50 to $5.02 per bushel.

The announcement came nearly four months after ASA first urged that the Carter administration increase the loan level to bring rates in line with increased soybean production costs.

"We are pleased with the action of the President in moving the loan level to the $5.02 rate first proposed by the American Soybean Association," said Aves, pointing out that the ASA recommendation is based on a philosophy that the loan level should represent 65 percent of the national average cost of production.

"A higher rate might provide too much stimulus to production," he said. "This rate is designed to provide farmers an additional source of capital to meet increasing production costs without encouraging overproduction."

Aves also praised President Carter's announcement that the administration is delaying further consideration of a soybean reserve program until the impact of weather on oilseed production can be fully assessed.

"Soybean farmers have been strongly opposed to a soybean reserve right from the start," said Aves. "We believe the success of soybeans has been largely due to the lack of government involvement in the market. This decision by government not to implement a soybean reserve program means the forces of the market system will set the price of soybeans and growers can adjust their production accordingly."

While expressing support for the increased loan level and the delay in reserve program activities, Aves noted his disappointment in the continuation of the Soviet grain embargo.

"The embargo has done little if any good," said Aves reiterating the ASA call for a halt to the Carter imposed ban on grain and soybean shipments to the U.S.S.R.

State Achievement Days at Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK — State 4-H Achievement Days will be held this week, August 4-6, at Penn State.

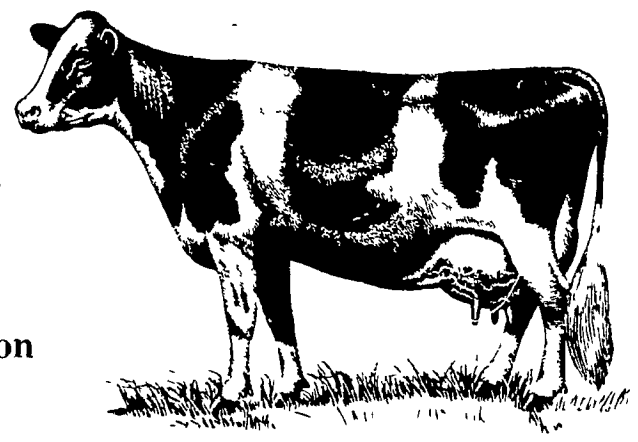
Nearly two thousand Pennsylvania 4-H'ers will participate in a wide range of events from dairy judging, consumerama, and horse bowl to entomology identification, public speaking, and fashion revue.

Participation in these events gives a 4-H'er a chance to show what he's learned through 4-H, as well as a chance to develop self-confidence and increase his skills - things he can use all of his life. A 4-H'er also has the opportunity to meet 4-H'ers from different parts of the Commonwealth.

Participants to be eligible must have one year in 4-H, and they must be between 13 and 19 years old. County competitions are held to determine who will participate in the events at Penn State.

The theme of the 1980 State 4-H Achievement Days is Expanding Horizons.

LANCASTER COUNTY DAIRYMEN:



IT'S A FACT: chances are better than 9 out of 10 that your herd of slick, high-producing cows is infected with roundworms. Here are five more facts you should know about worms, the production losses they can cause, and how to help stop them with TBZ, the prefreshening cattle wormer.

FACT 1—Most wormy cows "look healthy" because they eat enough to feed the worms AND to keep themselves looking good. University, Extension and other scientists have proved over 90 percent of all cattle are wormy, even in cold, northern climates.

FACT 2—Worms can cut production, even in top herds, by as much as 400 to 500 pounds per head per lactation...shown in trials in Wisconsin, Vermont and other dairy states.

FACT 3—One out of four dairymen now worm routinely, and thousands more are beginning every year.

FACT 4—Worming each cow with TBZ before she calves lets her begin lactation clean, and helps make peak production possible all through lactation.

FACT 5—TBZ is a one-dose, one-time worming treatment available in paste, bolus, suspension and pellet forms. At the stanchion or in the calving pen, TBZ makes worming each cow as she freshens simple, easy, quick.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The letter from M. Martin in your July 12 issue merits response

Martin depicts me as a disgruntled former employee of Eastern Milk Producers seeking revenge. That's the general line adopted by the cooperative's leaders...their best answer to the series of articles depicting how screwed up things are within Eastern Milk Producers in my publication, "The Milkweed," and a year ago in "Farm Journal". As someone formerly associated with Eastern (a long time ago), I do have some insights into the overall workings of the cooperative.

Eastern Milk Producers members need look only at their most recent milk checks and the letter from Mr. McDonald explaining how Eastern lost 66 cents per cwt., marketing May milk in Order 2 to know something is very wrong.

Had Eastern assessed the full 66 cents per cwt., marketing loss (instead of assigning to future "profits" from the mozzarella plants), an Eastern member producing 50,000 pounds for May would have incurred nearly $1000 in marketing losses and assessments for the month (if such a producer chose to pay the full share of the $2.5 million assessment in one lump). That is money farmers need for their families and their farming operations.

During the last year or two, statements by Mr. McDonald and Mr. Tewksbury about Eastern's financial condition seem highly inaccurate. Members must question if they knew what was going on...or were honest in their reflections of the co-op's financial status.

Eastern's leaders have sought to intimidate the news media and members who questioned the cooperative's situation. The Co-op has a $24 million lawsuit against members who brought the class action suit seeking an accounting of Eastern's finances. All those members wanted was an accounting of the co-op's finances for the last few years...to know where the millions and millions of dollars went.

Eastern has a $15 million libel action pending against the Sayre, Pa. "Evening Times." Earlier this year, Eastern's legal counsel searched everything I'd written about the Co-op for possible libel...to no avail.

One former director, William S Johnson of Orange County, NY, had a phony antibiotics charge brought against him in the spring of 1979. Johnson was an agitator, the Co-op walled off its boardroom with concrete blocks because Johnson ranted and raved about the need to do things in a business-like manner. And Max Lonstein, who recently retired from the board of directors, was subjected to much personal abuse for his attempts to bring honesty to the Co-op's affairs.

The cooperative movement in Order 2 is a mess. The losses and shennanigans at Eastern are driving members out in droves. Real economic progress in the region's dairy industry will come only through solid, honest cooperatives, and that goal seems further away each day.

I feel sorry for dairy farmers who are "trapped" into a milk market with an ineptly run cooperative. That is a modern day form of serfdom.

If there's some good news at Eastern, it is that the new president, Mr. Korona, appears to be of an independent mind and is trying to shake things up. Let's hope it's not too late. The Leprino contract...and the penalties for undersupplying it by Eastern members. hang over members farms.

Everywhere else in this country, dairy cooperatives are basic assets to members' dairy businesses. Why not in the New York-New Jersey milkshed? Because too often farmers have selected their leadership poorly and failed to demand economic performance from cooperatives similar to the rest of the business world.

When the dust settles at Eastern Milk Producers, people will better understand why a few dozen members, a few former directors, and a journalist or two have contended something stinks.

Pete Hardin, Editor
The Milkweed

Dear Editor:

I am constantly amazed at the erratic statements concerning airport zoning in reports by Sheila Miller.

In the July 5th issue of Lancaster Farming Mrs. Miller uses the heading "Farmers win battle, township denies airport rezoning," where is the battle?

This is a false heading. There was no battle as far as Reigle Airport is concerned. The airport owners asked for that which they are entitled to; they will continue to do so. What farmers?

Reference here must have been made to Harold & Gladys Brandt who caused trouble for 40 years.

Miller also states rezoning would have created an airport hazard zone. Absolutely not true. The zone is already there; it is an open safety approach to the runway at either end.

She further states that farmers could not build structures higher than 35 feet. That is already true in R-1 zoning. She doesn't know too much about zoning. What's her point?

Mr. Editor, I am a farmer and I never went along with the statement "dumb farmers". However, if your farmer readers believe Mrs. Miller's comments, I shall have to admit there is truth in the saying, "dumb farmers"

ATTENTION FARMERS! ADVANCED AG SYSTEMS INTRODUCES CIRCLE STEEL BUILDINGS

DO YOU REALLY NEED A STORAGE BUILDING THIS GOOD?

If you could afford a new building every 10 years, a Circle Steel building wouldn't be necessary. But most farmers make an investment in a building that will last longer than 10 years...many are investing in Circle Steel to get that longer life with less yearly maintenance.

If you want long-term return on your building investment, make it a Circle Steel...from

Bucks 4-H presentation night held

DOYLESTOWN — Model airplanes, painted rocks, and outdoor equipment were some of the items that 4-H members showed at the Bucks County 4-H presentation night recently at Neshaminy Manor Center, here

4-H members presented speeches and demonstrations telling the audience about their 4-H project. The blue ribbon winners will go on to compete at 4-H State Achievement Days this week at Penn State.

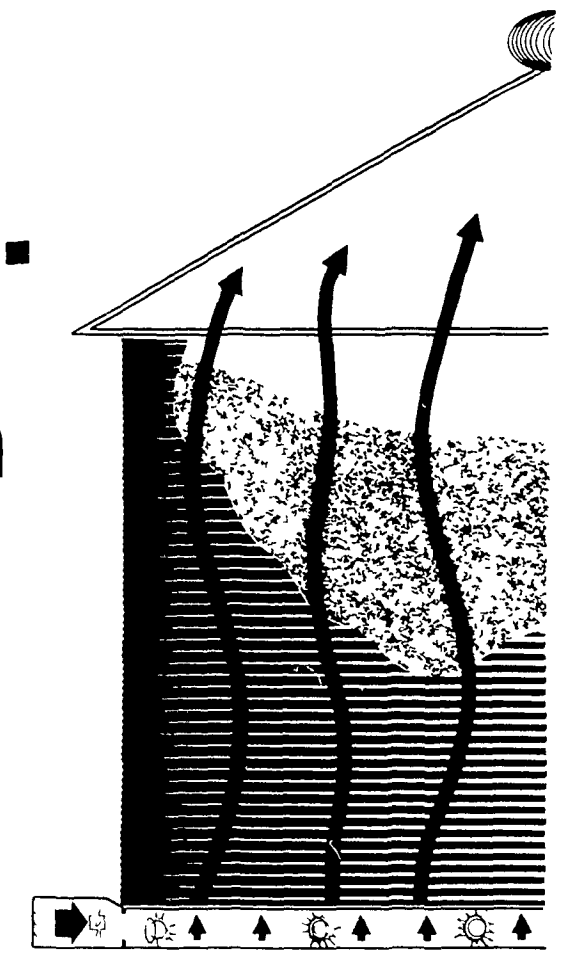
Winning blue ribbons in the senior demonstration contest were. Greg Rodel, Richboro, model airplanes, and Beth Schultz, Churchville, Pennsylvania Dutch cuisine. Other blue ribbon winners were Lisa Comly, Ottsville, outdoor camping, and Kyleann Burtt, Richboro, Rocks with Paint.

Tom Tomlinson, Wrightstown, presented a speech entitled What Will Become of 4-H Members Tomorrow 4-H in My Home and Community was the title of the speech by Cathy Bray, Yardley Both Tom and Cathy received blue ribbons.

The judges for the evening were Annette Gross, Pipersville, and Paula Scheetz, New Britain.

For more information about 4-H, call the Bucks County Cooperative Extension Office, at 215/343-2800, extension 240.

"Harvestall Chillcuring works great. I get top quality corn for less than I used to pay for shelling alone."



ANDY GLICK, Oley, Pa.

"I used to get my crib corn shelled for feeding my hogs. But since that cost around 8¢ a bushel even before hauling costs, I decided I'd be better off with storage. I went with the Harvestall and have never regretted it.

"I've put as high as 32% moisture corn in my Harvestall and you know, I've never had a mold problem."

"So I'm impressed with the Harvestall system and the quality corn I get with it. And I get it cured down for less than it used to cost just for shelling.

"I've recommended the Harvestall to my friends. I'm really happy with it."

HARVESTALL

The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It s simple When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed So instead of destroying the seed with high heat moisture is removed with natural air ventilation The grain keeps all its feed value there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter You ll never see white dust in Chillcured corn You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink

There s no gas or oil to buy Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it

Harvestall Chillcuring is a back-to-basics system that just simply makes good sense Find out more about it

Seasonal price decline noted

Oversupply, low demand dampen dairy outlook

LANCASTER — Supplies of milk and dairy products are being maintained at well above year-ago levels, while commercial use of dairy products is still weak. As a result, CCC purchases are extremely large, commercial stocks are ample, and farm milk prices remain under pressure.

Although the heat wave is hurting output in several states, milk production will continue above year-ago levels for the rest of the year, leaving production up 2.5 to 3.5 percent from 1979.

Farm milk prices will strengthen seasonally and may reach support. However, little or no increase above support is expected. Thus, the farm all-milk price will average 9 to 10 percent higher than the $12 per hundredweight of 1979, compared with a 13 percent increase last year

Commercial use of milk and dairy products in April-May decreased a sharp five percent from a year ago.

Sales of butter dropped substantially, while commercial disappearance of American cheese was down over 1.5 per cent.

An increase in unemployment, a reduction in consumer purchasing power, and relatively low meat and poultry prices contributed to the decline in dairy product sales. Given the current outlook for a weak general economy, relatively large supplies of alternative protein sources, and higher retail dairy product prices, commercial use likely will not match the record 1979 total of 120.4 billion pounds.

Milk production on a daily average basis for the first half of 1980 was 3.2 percent above 1979, a result of increased milk cow numbers and more milk per cow. The increased numbers continued to reflect a favorable milk-feed price relationship and relatively low utility cow prices

Increased output per cow resulted from heavier feeding of concentrates, also a function of favorable milk-feed price relationships.

Milk production in June was up four percent from a year ago. Output was up for 25 of the 33 reporting States, including each of the five major producing States.

Milk production gains will continue for the rest of 1980 and possibly into 1981. With the expectation of relatively favorable milk-feed price relationships, causing milk cow numbers and output per cow to remain above a year ago, milk production will range two to four percent above a year ago in the third quarter and one to three percent higher in the fourth

However, a continuation of hot, dry weather in southwestern and several other states would reduce milk production Already, there has been some impact on production in these states due to heat stress and declining forage conditions But, to date, there has been little impact on overall U S production, since the major dairy states have not been significantly affected

Prices paid to farmers for milk have declined seasonally since January, reflecting the normal decline in fat content. However, the June all milk price at $12.50 per 100 pounds was up 8.7 percent from 1979.

Manufacturing grade milk prices averaged $11.70 per hundredweight during June, 44 cents below support when adjusted for fat content, an improvement, however, from shortfalls in April and May of 58 cents and 55 cents, respectively.

For the first half of 1980 cash receipts for milk were up 12.5 per cent from a year ago with larger marketings and higher prices contributing to the gain. For all of 1980, cash receipts will likely exceed $16.5 billion, compared with $14.7 billion in 1979. The index of prices paid by all farmers for production items increased 10.4 percent during first-half 1980 from a year ago.

By mid-July, wholesale prices of American cheese, butter, and nonfat dry milk still had not reached the equivalent of Commodity Credit Corporation purchase prices effective April 1.

The June wholesale dairy product price index reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics was up 10.3 percent from last year.

For second-half 1980, wholesale price increases from year-ago levels should abate, as wholesale dairy, product prices will likely not advance until commercial stocks are reduced or demand picks up. However, wholesale prices will likely rise later this year after higher CCC purchase prices go into effect October 1.

The BLS retail dairy product index during May was 11 percent higher than a year ago, as both higher farm value and larger marketing spreads contributed to higher dairy-product prices. For all of 1980, retail dairy product prices will average between 9 and 11 percent above 1979.

Heavy raw milk supplies during April-May resulted in and eight percent, year-to-year gain in the quantity of milk used in manufacturing. American cheese output was up nearly eight percent from last year, while production of other cheese types was up slightly. Butter manufacture increased by nearly a fifth knowledge of the growing conditions overseas. The local growers said they are providing a wholesome product which the consumer can trust while no one really knows the growing conditions of foreign mushrooms.

Commercial stocks of dairy products on June 1 remained at high levels, although the amount above year-ago has lessened in recent months.

Mushrooms

In this latest meeting sponsored by the Union in Chester County, the subject of tariffs to bridge the gap between foreign and domestic mushrooms was discussed.

Hopkins suggested an import quota of thirty percent of the total U.S value for the next five years He said that Canada has increased its tariff from twelve and a half percent to twenty percent. He added that the European restrictions have made the United States "a dumping area for foreign mushrooms."

Other matters discussed included the bonding of those who buy from the growers much the way the milk security fund bonds the dairy industry

And Lyle Forer from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture said that while there is a seed act which spells out specific requirements for selling certified seeds according to viability, trueness to type and germination, mushroom spawn is not included in the act.

Leonard Zemaitis, Pennsylvania Farmers Union administrative director, said the next session of Congress may be the time to start work on getting a bill through. He said that there is insufficient constituency at present to get a bill passed.

Fred King from the Farm and Home Administration outlined for the group the three types of loans available in the State. They included: loans for real estate, loans for operating expenses and economic emergency loans

Ed Osborne, field representative for Farmers Union emphasized the organization's willingness to help the mushroom growers. And Joe Pitts, representative from the 158th district, reported that many outside of the industry itself support their efforts to solve their problems.

Chester County Farmers Union president John Kimble told the group that the Union was "here tonight to help the mushroom growers. We have helped many farmers in the past and we are here when the mushroom growers need help too. We forget partisan politics in this organization"

Show judge Jane Pepple, Oxford, looks over a class of cows while contestants scratch their brains to place the animals. The cow judging was a highlight of the Lancaster Holstein Club field day held Thursday at the Robert H. Kauffman farm, R1 Elizabethtown.

Nathan Stoltzfus, president of the Lancaster County Holstein Club, congratulates John Cope, right, for winning trophy as overall high scorer in the cow judging contest Thursday morning. Admitted Cope, "Last time I judged I had the top cow at the bottom of her class."

fifth to Elam Bollinger, Manheim.

Second through fifth place was one big tie, broken by answering special questions on the cattle shown.

Marlene Stauffer, Elizabethtown, was first in a field of 43 in the women's contest.

Second place went to Iva Lapp, Gap; third, Joyce Graybill, Mt. Joy; fourth, Evelyn Landis, Manheim, and fifth, Becky Wivell, Columbia.

Leader in the youth division was James Frey, Willow Street Second place went to Sheila Frey, Willow Street; third, Mark Welk, Peach Bottom; fourth Larry Groff, Kinzers; fifth, Lowell Fry, Manheim.

State Director and Field Day Host Bob Kauffman reviewed some important dates for Holstein breeders.

The 1981 calf sale will be held April 1, 1981 with the bred heifers going on the block on April 2.

The All-American Show will begin September 25 this year.

Classification for herds begins in September Over 900 eastern Pennsylvania herds will be classifying.

Kauffman recommended farmers take the herd pedigree package and get the package price of $3 per head, saving $1 per cow.

Transfer fees go from $5 to $10 a head starting January 1, 1981, he noted.

Pennsylvania will be getting an area office of the National Holstein Association. It probably will be located near Harrisburg with Mel Hertzler, former manager of Allen Dairy, as director.

Area offices will be similar to the national office only will provide localized service to farmers, Kauffman said.

Also present at the Field Day were dairy princesses from Lancaster and Lebanon counties who led the dairy families in singing the new milk promotion song "Milk's the soft soft drink."

Pydrin given clearance for potatoes

LANCASTER — The Environmental Protection Agency has granted Pennsylvania a Section 18 Emergency Exemption for the use of Shell's Pydrin Insecticide for control of the Colorado Potato Beetle in potatoes.

Pydrin is cleared for multiple applications at rates ranging from 0.1 to 0.2 pound active ingredient per acre.

Shell's synthetic pyrethroid was well received by growers trying to control the resistant-prone beetle in 1979. It's the only pyrethroid of the three currently on the market that was granted the Section 18 exemption.

Poultry month

The poultry industry provides employment for 20,000 persons in the county.

To get a better handle on the industry, Commissioners James Huber and Robert Boyer took a guided tour of the Hershey's 46,000 bird confinement egg production facility.

The 52 by 305 foot house was built in 1977 and includes the most modern devices in egg production.

One outstanding feature is ceiling ribs which run across the house, from side vent to side vent, rather than lengthwise as is normal. While it cost a bit more to build that way, Hershey noted the good airflow and coolness inside the house, even during the recent heat spell which killed thousands of birds in the county.

The commissioners saw Hershey's 1000 case cold storage and met the contestants in the county poultry contest scheduled for Friday night.

Concluded Commissioner Boyer, "It's amazing how little labor is involved in the poultry industry to provide such a good product for so many people."—CH producing beef the way we always have."

Carlson acknowledges that consumers aren't buying quite as much beef as they have in past years But he's quick to point out that there isn't as much beef to buy now either because cattlemen are in the low point of the cattle numbers cycle.

He explains that cattle production runs in ten year cycles. When cattlemen are making good profits, they react predictably by expanding or rebuilding their herds Since most cattlemen are expanding their herds at the same time, cattle numbers eventually get too large — and prices fall

Again, cattlemen react — this time by reducing their nerds and sending more cattle to market. Consumers benefit during this period because of the large beef supplies and low prices

But cattlemen sustain fairly heavy losses until the eventual decrease in supplies causes cattle prices to start rising — and the whole process starts all over again.

"Right now, we're in the beginning of the rebuilding stage of our cycle," Carlson says, "and under normal circumstances we should be doing pretty well The problem is there are a whole bunch of other factors affecting us, and we have no control over them "

Inflation is especially tough on cattlemen, he points out Production costs are soaring.

But unlike manufactured products, you can't mark up beef prices to cover the increased costs. The price a cattleman gets for his cattle is determined strictly by supply and demand at the time of the sale.

With production costs at an all-time high, a cattleman has only two choices available to him. He can become even more efficient, or he can borrow more money.

But how much money can you borrow at today's high interest rates — that is, if you can get it at all?

Carlson says the image of the big talking, big spending cattleman is a myth.

"Our industry is made up of small businessmen," he points out. "As a matter of fact, almost 70 percent of the cattle operations in the United States are small outfits with fifty head — or less "

Carlson also says that beef has been getting a bad rap in recent years because it's been linked with cholesterol — and cholesterol is linked with heart attacks in the minds of many people.

"Talk about sloppy reporting," he scoffs "First, beef is not high in cholesterol It's as low as chicken and fish And second, the scientific community is now starting to say that this whole cholesterol thing needs to be re-examined.

"They conducted fifteen clinical trials, involving 50,000 man years, and found no evidence that diet has any effect whatsoever on heart disease "

Carlson says beef prices are fairly stable now — and a pretty good buy for consumers since they're lower than they were a year ago

"There aren't many products that can make that claim in these inflationary times "

He's Optimistic about this industry and his country. If he has a main concern, it's his feeling that government is getting too involved in too many aspects of our lives.

Carlson says he believes in the philosophy espoused by Thomas Jefferson more than two hundred years ago.

"Jefferson said, 'He who governs best, governs least'. I think that's a philosophy they ought to re-examine in Washington. They seem to have forgotten it."

Montgomery 4-H food-nutrition program open

NORRISTOWN — Eating a variety of foods is one of the seven dietary guidelines Montgomery County 4-H'ers are studying in a 4-H food-nutrition program, conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by General Foods Corporation.

The 4-H food-nutrition program helps young people develop skills in planning, purchasing, preparing and serving tasty, attractive and nutritious meals and snacks. The program urges boys and girls, 8 to 19 to learn by doing, and become familiar with the principles of nutrition as they relate to good health, physical fitness and an attractive appearance.

As an added incentive, 4-H'ers who excel in their 4-H food-nutrition projects are eligible for awards donated by General Foods and arranged by national 4-H Council.

Four members from each county receive medals of honor, and one 4-H'er from each state earns an expense-paid trip to the 59th National 4-H Congress, November 30 - December 4, in Chicago, Illinois. In addition, six national winners receive $1000 scholarships. The Montgomery County 1980 junior winners were Tom McGann, Upper Dublin and Chris Roblee of Fort Washington.

More information is available from county extension offices at 215/277-0574. Projects of several 4-H foods members will be on display at the annual Montgomery County 4-H Fair to be held August 20-23 at the 4-H Center in Lansdale.

Rain gives some relief to central U.S., Canada

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Showers and thunderstorms have brought some relief from the hot, dry weather that has been threatening crops in the United States and Canada, according to a report issued today by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility of the U.S. Departments of Commerce and Agriculture. Excess rain, however, worsened dampness problems in northern Europe and northern European USSR.

UNITED STATES. Rain ver the past several days rought some relief from the hot, dry weather that has been plaguing much of the central and southern United States. Temperatures dropped into the 80's over much of the northern Great Plains

The rain and cooler temperatures benefited corn and soybeans under stress in major growing areas that had had no rain for two to three weeks. With corn now in the important pollination stage, weather over the next week to 10 days will be critical. The showers and cooler temperatures suggest a change in the hot, dry pattern of the past four to six weeks may be at hand.

CANADA. Widespread showers fell throughout the Prairie Provinces, bringing further relief to drought-plagued spring grain areas. Late seeded crops in Saskatchewan and Manitoba will benefit the most, though some areas still require additional rainfall to achieve adequate growth.

USSR. Key areas where the winter grain harvest was behind schedule because of wet, cold conditions improved generally this past week as weather systems stayed mostly to the north. Temperatures remained below normal, however, so conditions were less than ideal for harvesting and for row crop development.

Conditions vary in spring grain areas. Moisture remains adequate in the New Lands, a major spring grain region. In the less important spring grain areas of northern European USSR, quality and yields suffered from continued cold, rainy weather.

EUROPE. The same cold wet weather that was affecting northern European USSR also continued to retard crop growth in northeastern Europe. Winter grains may be in the greatest danger now with harvesting due to begin shortly.

SOUTHERN ASIA. Heavy monsoon rains have caused flooding and damaged spring crops, mostly rice, in northern India and in Bangladesh. Though flooding has occurred in some areas, overall conditions are reportedly still favorable for spring crops.

Broiler chick placement decline

HARRISBURG — Commercial red meat production in Pennsylvania during June totaled 78.3 million pounds, down seven percent from June 1980, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Cattle slaughter at 53,100 head was down 15 percent, while calf slaughter at 12,100 head was up seven percent from last year. Hog slaughter at 274,100 head increased one percent from a year ago. The number of sheep slaughtered totaled 12,100 head, down eight percent from May 1979.

National commercial red meat production during June totaled 3.09 billion pounds, an increase of three percent from June 1979. Beef production at 1.73 billion pounds was unchanged, while veal production at 30 million pounds declined six percent. Pork production totaled 1.31 billion pounds, up eight percent from June 1979. Lamb and mutton production increased five percent to 22 million pounds.

Public meeting slated on seasonal farmworkers

STATE COLLEGE — Three agencies of the U.S Department of Labor with law enforcement duties to protect migrant farmworkers will hold a joint meeting August 12, 1980, in the assembly hall of the Hetzel Union Building, Pollock Road, on the campus of Penn State, State College.

The meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., is open to the public

It will focus on the enforcement of such laws as the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, the Occupational Safety and Health act, the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, and the Wagner-Peyser Act

These statutes are administered by the Wage and Hour Division of the Employment Standards Administration; OSHA; and the Employment and Training Administration Each agency will be represented at the meeting by specialists assigned to farm labor programs.

According to Charles M. Angell, regional administrator for the Employment Standards Administration, the meeting at Penn State will be one of at least 10 such gatherings scheduled this year across the country to facilitate coordination of law enforcement efforts with farm labor groups and agricultural employers.

A similar forum is planned for Annapolis, Md. in November.

Angell said the meetings are mandated by federal regulations published in June that established national and regional Farm Labor Coordinated Enforcement Committees within the Labor Department. Representatives from each department agency that has responsibilities for protecting migrant farmworkers serve on the committees.

Minutes of the August 12 session will be submitted to the national committee in Washington, D.C. to evaluate public response to the Labor Department's efforts to coordinate its enforcement of laws affecting farmworkers and their employers.

Major provision of these laws include minimum wage and child labor protections under the Fair Labor Standards Act, provides certain protections as regards to terms and conditions of employment of migrant and seasonal farmworkers by farm labor contractors under the FLCRA, and housing health and safety standards under the OSHA law.

Under the Wagner-Peyser Act, the Employment and Training Administration is responsible to assure that state-operated Job Service agencies assist migrant farmworkers by inspecting temporary housing prior to occupancy and by providing job placement and training services.

State ranks second in ice cream

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania ranks second in the nation in the production of ice cream and third in milk sherbert production according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service's 1979 manufactured dairy products survey, released this week by State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell. The state ranks fourth in the production of ice milk.

The survey showed that Pennsylvania manufacturers produced 73.7 million gallons of ice cream during 1979, up three percent from 1978. California was the only state in the nation to top the commonwealth, manufacturing 89.1 million gallons.

Ice milk production in Pennsylvania during 1979 totaled 15.4 million gallons, down 16 percent from 1978. Milk sherbert production, at 2.8 million gallons, was down eight percent from last year's production. Pennsylvania's production of ice milk during 1979 was the fourth largest in the nation, following California, Ohio and Illinois, while milk sherbert production was the third largest following California and Ohio. Other frozen products manufactured totaled 999,000 gallons, an increase of 22 percent over 1978.

Creamery butter production increased to 48.8 million pounds, up 27 percent from 1978. Creamed cottage cheese production in the commonwealth totaled 46.2 million pounds, up less than one percent from the previous year. Lowfat cottage cheese production, however, was up 11 percent at 17.0 million pounds.

Pennsylvania's total production of cheese during 1979, excluding cottage cheese, totaled 93.9 million pounds, down two percent from the previous year. Mozzarella cheese production, at 25.4 million pounds, was down three percent. Other types of Italian cheeses, with 14.3 million pounds produced in 1979, showed an increase of seven percent from last year Swiss cheese production was 8.9 million pounds, down 13 percent from the previous year.

Production of dry and condensed milk during 1979 and the changes from 1978 were: whole unsweetened condensed, 42.2 million pounds, up 41 percent; skim unsweetened condensed, 56.4 million pounds, down 20 percent; and nonfat dry milk for human food, 20.9 million pounds, up ten percent.

During 1979, 3.28 billion pounds of whole milk were used in manufactured dairy products in Pennsylvania. Of this total, 33 percent was used for frozen products, 32 percent for butter, ten percent for cheese and 25 percent for other milk products.

Holly

Demand, with a maximum BOD limit of 37 mg/l; and phosphorus levels are limited to 2.0 mg/l average and 4.0 mg/l maximum. Both of these limits have been exceeded, he stated.

Yohn noted the Holly plant showed a "marked improvement from the second week in April through the month of May. "We were encouraged by the way they were progressing with their engineering plans."

But, he added, there were problems with the effluent discharge in June. He recently sent an assessment of penalties to the DER attorney, John Embick.

"Holly is making progress to improvement," Yohn stated. "So far, there has been no equity action taken to close the plant because of their violations. But, if we continue to have problems, additional action could be taken by the department."

Any further delay in schedule, he added, will result in additional penalties of $500 per day.

Once the completed information is received from Holly, DER will then begin to process the permit application.

After receiving the DER permit, Holly then will have 30 days to begin construction. The construction must be completed by the end of February, 1981, said Yohn. And the plant must be in full operation within 30 days of completion of construction.

Yohn noted that DER will be watching Holly closely, monitoring the plant's discharges for 3 months after it is in full operation and calling for any additional modifications that may be needed.

"We'll have a lot of help from other interested citizens and groups," he added. "Sportsmen in the area watch Mountain Creek because it is a trout stream and a Fish for Fun area."—SM

Tioga Holstein Club marks summer festival

MANSFIELD — Approximately 300 Holstein enthusiasts were on hand Saturday evening at the farm of Harold and Leona Robson, just outside Mansfield, to partake of the activities of the Tioga County Holstein Club's Annual Strawberry Festival.

Three lovely young ladies were on hand to give breeders a few words. Bradford County Dairy Princess, Lun Ann Shedden of Troy, and Tioga County Dairy Princess, Charlene Messner of Roaring Branch, put in a good word for "MILK".

Tioga County's own Penny Smith put in a plug for Holsteins and thanked all of those who had helped her in any way during the past 10 years to become the 1980 Pennsyvlania Distinguished Holstein Girl.

Four classes of Holsteins were judged by many, with Bob Tillinghast of Bradford County, serving as the official judge.

Prizes donated by various businesses were won by the following:

Men's Division: 1. Perry Anderson (overall High scorer), 2. Neil Bowen. 3. Ed Robbins, 4. Ben Jackson, 5 & 6 (tie) James Hepp and Dean Baity, 7 and 8 (tie) Richard Brewer and Gerald Parker, 9. George Page, Jr., 10 . Jon Cooper.

Women's Division: 1. Donna Hepp, 2 and 3 (tie) Charlotte Smith and Jane Hultz, 4, 5, 6 and 7 (tie) Rosamond Tillinghast, Eunice McFall, Ida Jane Plance and Nancy Page, 8. Ann Lee Baity, 9. Pam Brewer, 10 (tie) Anna Sparling and Jan Page

Junior Division, Boys: 1. Curtis Robbins, 2 Keith Robbins, 3. Jeff Wheeler, 4 and 5. (tie) Bill Baker and Bill Lichty, 6. Steve Smith, 7. John Wheeler, 8 & 9 (tie) Rich Detweiler and Steve Mattocks, 10. David Herriot.

Girls: 1. Jenny Robbins, 2. Teresa Herman, 3. Cheryl McFall, 4. Brenda Robson, 5. 6, and 7 (tie) Roxie Beals, Theresa Hulse and Penny Smith, 8. Anna Whitney, 9. Cynthia Baker, 10. Theresa McFall.

Vanilla ice cream topped with strawberries, cold tea, punch and almost any kind of homemade cake imaginable were available to everyone to round out a very enjoyable evening

A big thank you went to Bud and Leona Robson and family for hosting this event; to the donors of the gifts for the judging contest and to everyone else who in any way helped make it another successful Holstein Strawberry Festival.

Chester sheep roundup today

GOSHEN — The Chester County 4-H Sheep Roundup will be held today, 9:30 a.m. at the Goshen Fairgrounds on Route 3, approximately 3 miles east of West Chester.

Dick Kuzumchak, Penn State shepherd, is this year's judge for the show. Five breeds of sheep will be exhibited along with fitting and showmanship contests and a blocking contest. Everyone is invited to attend.

Central Jersey Holsteins to show Friday

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — The Central Jersey Holstein Show, open to adult and junior exhibitors, brings together outstanding Holstein cattle of all ages to compete for the ribbons and an assortment of trophies and awards. Show begins at 10 a.m. on Friday, August 8 at the Flemington Fairgrounds.

The show features many awards, including a registered Holstein calf, for youth exhibiting at the show. The calf goes to the youngster with the highest composite score based on fitting, showmanship and activities/achievements.

The official judge for this show is Jim Shaw, noted Holstein breeder and nationally recognized judge, from Oley, Pa. It will be his job to sort out the cattle as they circle the ring by classes. He'll place them in order so that ribbons may be awarded.

Judging youth for fitting and showmanship will be Mrs. Peggy Hannema, Oxford, former 4-H dairy club member in Warren County and State Dairy Princess of a few years back.

Chris Endris, Flemington, current Hunterdon Dairy Princess, will present ribbons and trophies during the show.

Co-Chairmen for the Central Jersey Holstein Show are George and June Alles, Raritan Township. They are currently assembling the entries for the show booklet.

It can be a really interesting day. It's educational and informative. So, too, are the 4-H fair activities. And here in Hunterdon, they are free of charge.

Call us if you'd like details as to events and the time schedule. Our phone numbers: 201/788-1339 for the Holstein show, 201/788-1340 for 4-H fair.

Corn breeding work featured at field day

GEORGETOWN, Del. — To the non-farmer driving through rural Delaware this time of year, corn is corn. But to a plant breeder like James Hawk of the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, every strain has its unique characteristics that make it more or less suitable for local weather, soil, disease and insect conditions.

No one corn variety will ever be best for all the farmers in Delaware, he says, or even for all the farmers in any one county. That's because different farmers use various agricultural practices Hawk's plant breeding research at the University of Delaware Substation near Georgetown is designed to produce varieties that yield well under each situation.

For instance, farmers who use no-tillage need corn hybrids that can germinate under cooler conditions, since the ground doesn't warm up as fast in the spring if it's shaded by a cover crop.

For farmers who don't irrigate, and who may find themselves with a water stress situation, Hawk is experimenting with male-sterile corn cytoplasms, which may yield better than fertile cytoplasms under stress. Hawk is looking for the ideal blend of fertile and sterile plants which will produce top yields while offering disease resistance.

Some farmers may get a little worried when they see the stunted-looking corn in some of Hawk's plots at the Substation But there's really no cause for concern These are inbreds, which are corn plants he has self-pollinated because they exhibit certain desirable characteristics such as disease resistance.

The inbreds themselves may be small and poor-yielding, but when two inbreds are crossed they produce a much stronger hybrid, with many of the parent plants' good qualities and fewer of their shortcomings

Hawk's research will be on view at the University's Farm and Home Field Day, August 13 at the Substation, from 9·30 a.m till 3·30 p m

Red Lion FFA awarded trophy

RED LION — Seventeen members of the Red Lion Chapter of Future Farmers of America participated in the State FFA Activities Week at Penn State when the chapter was awarded a trophy by Harvey A. Smith, editor of Keystone Farmer Magazine.

During the three day event three members of the chapter won a trip to Kansas City, Missouri, to participate in National Competition at the National FFA convention for their winning efforts. They were Beth Holtzinger, who placed first in the job interview contest, Paul Garner, and Melvin Marks who both placed third in the poultry judging and dairy foods contests respectively.

Other winners included. Melissa Peters, seventh in public speaking earning a gold medal; Jimmy Shoff, honorable mention in forestry; Chris Reachard, thirteenth in horse judging earning a silver medal.

Jim Innerst and Abbe Johnson both earned a silver medal in dairy judging and Jeff Grove received honorable mention. The team of Innerst, Johnson and Grove placed seventh out of 65 teams.

Scott Hildebrand received honorable mention in livestock judging and Melinda Innerst received honorable mention in the dairy foods contest.

Farm truck registration now underway

HARRISBURG — Rep Noah W Wenger says the state Transportation Department will begin accepting registration applications August 1 for five new registration classes created under recently-passed truck-weight legislation

Senate Bill 10 raises the allowable gross weights on highways from 73,280 to 80,000 pounds The limit is permitted only on five-axle combinations if two consecutive sets of axles do not exceed a combined load of 34,000 pounds and the distance between the first and last axle is at least 36 feet

Wenger said owners wishing to re-reigster their vehicles in a higher weight class prior to the expiration of the current registration may do so by paying the difference in the old and new fee.

"An identification marker will be required on out-of-state trucks over 17,000 pounds and will be issued annually by the Department of Revenue for $25 Violation of the law will result in a fine of $100 to $500 for the first offense and $200 to $500 and/or 90 days imprisonment for subsequent violations," he said

Title fees for trucks and other vehicles will increase from $5 to $15.

The Lancaster County legislator said citizens taking advantage of these changes should be aware of the following procedures. They can:

Upgrade the weight class of a currently registered truck to one of the five new classes by submitting an MV-41 form (Application for Correction Change of Vehicle Title)

Transfer a current registration to another vehicle of a higher weight class when both are titled in the same name by submitting an MV-44 form (Application for Transfer of Registration Plate, Renewal Sticker or Class Decal)

Register a newly-purchased truck or truck-tractor at a combination weight which falls into one of the five new classes by submitting an MV-1 form (Application for Certificate of Title) for new vehicles or an MV-4 (Certificate of Title) for used vehicles.

Extend the registration of a currently registered trailer from one to five years by submitting and MV-140 (Request for Registration Renewal When Application Not Received). The validation period would extend five years beyond the expiration date of the current registration.

York Holstein Field Day hears vet

Dairymen have a drug problem

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

BAIR — Area dairymen have a drug problem. The abuse doesn't center around heroin, marijuana, uppers, downers or speed. Instead it lies in bottles, boluses and syringes of penicillin, streptomycin, tetracycline, or a whole gamut of similar substances commonly found on dairy farms across the nation.

That's the word from Dillsburg veterinarian Dr. Robert Owens, whose message at Tuesday's York County Holstein Association's field day centered on misuse of bovine antibiotics. Owens allowed that his audience of over two hundred Holstein enthusiasts at the 4-H Center might not be too happy with what he was about to tell them.

"I'm not real nuts about anybody being able to buy drugs off the trucks that come around to the farms," the vet asserted. "I want drugs used right. Every day I see people misusing antibiotics. If they're going to be used, they're worth using right - or not at all."

Bottom line of this drug situation is that veterinarians are having to use increasingly stronger drugs to clean up dairy herd diseases. As might be expected, the number one problem lies with that perennial bane of every dairy cow: mastitis.

The new disc assay antibiotic test that went into effect on July 1 is a supersensitive detective in the crackdown against drug residue in farm milk shipment. A bacillus organism used in the antibiotic culturing is so sensitive that it can detect one cubic centimeter (cc) of pencillin in 15,000 gallons of milk.

"If you're treating a quarter, and only throwing away the milk for that quarter instead of the cow's total output, believe me you're gonna get burned," warned the large animal practitioner.

Contrary to some beliefs, the method of administering an antibiotic has no countering effect on the withdrawal time for dumping treated milk. Regardless of the treatment site, whether through mouth, vein, hip, uterus or mammary system, the drug is absorbed into the bloodstream and carried to every part of the body A hip injection of antibiotics will get into the milk just as quickly as a direct infusion into a quarter.

Drug misuse also results from not maintaining what Owens labeled "M.I C - minimum inhibitory concentration," or the proper level of a drug in an animal's system for the complete period of time that it takes to kill all the bacteria

You can't 'stick' an animal once and have it work," he emphasized It should be used at least three days, or 24 to 48 hours after fever levels drop And that's a rule "

Failure to continue antibiotics for this concentration level results in the survival of a few drug-resistant bacteria, which will multiply and cause a reoccurrence. Then the first antibiotic is no longer effective and a stronger one will be needed.

Withdrawal time is also different on the varied drugs, based on metabolic absorption by the liver or the rate of excretion by the kidneys. Penicillin, for instance, spreads throughout the bloodstream within a half-hour after an intramuscular injection and lasts for a full 24 hours, thus making only one treatment per day necessary.

Streptomycin, while also through the system within a half-hour, only remains at killing levels for up to 12 hours, requiring twice-daily use. For this reason, a popular blend of penicillin and streptomycin is, in Owen's opinion, "one of the poorest treatments in the market," because the period of concentration at killing levels is not compatible. Separate injections of the two would be much preferable, he advised.

Then there's another frequently used antibiotic, tetracycline, which lasts only for six hours and must be used four times daily, and ampicillin, good for eight hours and needed three times a day.

Dumping of milk must be based on the number of hours since the last treatment was given, not the number of milkings, a crucial point in herds being milked three times daily. And, even though the actual milking time may be slightly past the final hour of withdrawal, some of the milk accumulating in the cow's system was being produced during the withdrawal period and it must be dumped because some residue will still be there.

Owens also shot holes through what he calls the "Doc, this cow just isn't coming in heat" syndrome. About 90 percent of those animals, he says, are actually cycling regularly.

"Part of the problem is that cows seem to come in heat during the coolest part of the day - like 2 a.m. - when very few dairymen are in the barn," he wryly noted. Twice daily herd observations of 20 minutes at both dusk and dawn is Owens' key to catching cycling individuals. Regular adherence to dusk and dawn observation should result in a near 90-percent detection level. Heat observation after morning milking is the least desirable time, since only about a 25-percent detection level can be expected.

One useful tool for catching cycling cows is the K-mar heat detector strip. The vet warned, however, that it must be used properly as a detection aid, and not be relied upon as a crutch against poor reproductive management.

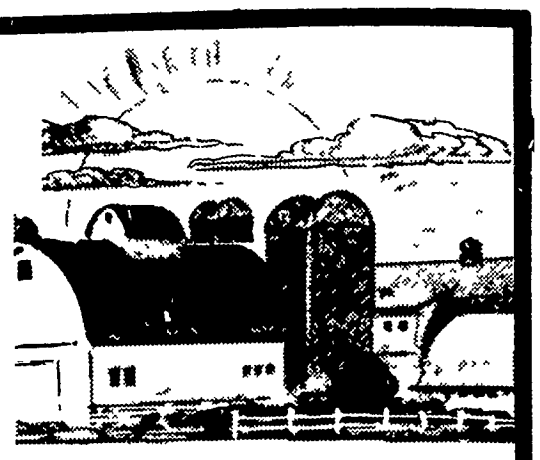
Dr. Owens presentation was the wrap-up of a day of activities that included a chicken barbeque luncheon at the 4-H Center and cattle judging and a herd visit at Sunnybend Farm, Biesecker Road, York, owned by Tom and June Boyer.

The Boyer's milk 35 registered Holsteins with a rolling herd average of over 19,000 pounds of milk and almost 700 of fat, while maintaining a BAA rating of 106.1 on type classification. Over 80 percent of the herd is homebred, with sires like Valiant, Mars, Milestone, Sexation and Kit Builder in use. Sunnybend's cropping program is geared toward cattle feeding, with the 130 acres in corn, alfalfa and mixed hay and a small quantity of wheat for bedding straw.

Three winners were announced in the highly-popular cattle judging event. Junior winner was Steve Feeser, R6 Hanover, with Geraldine Wolf of R1 Abbottstown capturing the women's class award and Wayne Mummert, R1 East Berlin, topping the men's division. Jed Beshore, R1 New Cumberland, was official judge for the 2-yr.-old and 4-yr.-old classes.

Dr. Robert Owens, Dillsburg area large animal practitioner, tackled the issue of bovine drug therapy as key speaker for Tuesday's Holstein field day.

Have You Purchased Your SILAGE and HIGH MOISTURE CORN ADDITIVES or PRESERVATIVES For The coming Season?



With the large selection of products available to you today, deciding which way to turn brings important questions to be answered...

?? The Questions ??

1 WHAT AM I GOING TO USE ON MY SILAGE THIS YEAR?
A An Enzyme Based Product?
B A Yeast Preparation?
C A Urea Product?
D A Molasses Based Product?
E A Cultured Additive?
2 WHAT WILL TOTAL COST OF THE PREPARATION BE?
A Cost Per Ton!
B Coverage Per Ton!
C Total Return Vs Dollar Investment!
3 HOW WILL I APPLY THE PRODUCT I CHOOSE?
A Easy Application!
B Requires Special Aplicator!
C Must Be Applied By Hand!

Now...Let us give you answers to the above questions in relationship to our product. ALFA-ZYME!

!! The Answers !!

1 ALFA-ZYME is a fermented enzyme product injected onto a fine grade alfalfa (a top grade carrier of enzymes) We have the ORIGINAL ENZYMES PRODUCT!
2 The COST of ALFA-ZYME Vs return for your dollar is fantastic While other products use minimal lbs per ton, ALFA-ZYME requires 50 Lbs for every 3 tons of silage or high moisture corn A 120 ton silo takes 40 bags or 1 tone of ALFA-ZYME
3 We realize we might not have the easiest product to apply, but after application we have that "SOMETHING SPECIAL" that makes better silage and corn! (No, we don't have an "easy applicator" but then again if your results are not satisfactory with "easily applied" products, all you end up with is a useless "easy applicator!")

We hope the above information has captured your attention. Now we have a few questions of our own. .

1. Do you realize the product you choose will determine the outcome of your silage up to the next filling season? You can change your feeding program often, but the product you apply to your silage or corn must work the coming winter, spring and summer months!
2. Have you already purchased a product because of an early discount or "special deal"? If so, try this test...fill ½ your silo with the other product and then add ALFA-ZYME to the remainder. Make 1980 the year you make the test!

IN SUMMARY...

Making BETTER SILAGE and HIGHER MOISTURE CORN is our main business. And, ALFA-ZYME has been proven on farms like yours in PA, MD, VA, and W. VA.

NOW...THE FINAL QUESTION!...
Where can I purchase ALFA-ZYME?...Ask your feed dealer, farm store operator, call or write:

ALFA-ZYME
Box 32, New Kingstown, Pa. 17072
717-697-9085

Lebanon Holstein Field Day draws over 200 producers

LEBANON — Close to 250 Holstein enthusiasts from Dauphin, Berks, Lancaster and Lebanon Counties turned out for the Lebanon County Holstein Association's Field Day on Wednesday evening

Breeders and milkers of the big black and whites enthusiastically took part in a judging contest that let young and old alike practice their skills in picking out the best cows

For their efforts, prizes were awarded to the winners of four divisions men; women; youth, under 14, and youth, 14 to 18 The awards were donated by Agri Service, Agway, Lancaster Silo, and IBA respectively

The official judge for the evening's contest was Marlin Huff, of Cold Springs Farm, Maryland. He shared some of his farming and business experiences with the local dairymen later in the evening's program

The field day was held at the Mike Arnold farm, just east of Lebanon along 422 One of several farms owned by the Arnold brothers, this portion of Arnold Acres gave the visiting dairymen a close look at a new dairy wing featuring a pipeline operation and comfort stalls

Bev Burkholder, Lebanon County's Dairy Princess, concentrates on placing the class.

The 90 head of Holsteins housed in the new addition, with their names and production records posted over their backs, didn't seem to mind sharing their cool barn and loafing area with the visiting dairy producers — as long as it was for a good cause

Winners in the judging contest were

A miniature golf course was part of the dairy promotion at the York Mall display.

While city folk were the main participants in the dairy miniature golf course, farmers who were teed off at certain animals in their herd might also have enjoyed the sport.

York Mall hosts dairy exhibit

BY PATRICIA GREEK
Staff Correspondent

YORK — The York County Dairy Association held a week long exhibit recently at the York Mall.

The event was staged to help in the promotion of milk. The American Dairy Association provided a free "Milky Miniature Golf Course" for the children, which many played.

Tina Neufeld, 1980 York County Dairy Princess was on hand, handing out Cheesabutter dip and recipes. She also helped the children that were playing miniature golf.

Also attending the exhibit was the reigning Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess, Eileen Shull. Eileen is the 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shull. They have a family farm of 170 Registered Holsteins in Bucks County Eileen plans to attend Messiah College upon completion of her reign in September. She will be studying music education.

½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup butter
1 cup chocolate flavored Rice Crispies
1½ pints vanilla ice cream (softened)
½ ounce unsweetened chocolate, coarsely shredded

Melt chocolate pieces and butter in top of a double boiler on very low heat Stir in cereal. Put in buttered 8" pie pan Chill. Put ice cream in crust and sprinkle with chocolate. Freeze 4 hours Before serving put pie pan on hot towel to unmold Let soften a bit Serves 6

Eileen Shull, PA State Dairy Princess, handed out recipes during the York Mall display recently.

This group of 4-H youth and chaperones traveled to Dodge City, Kansas, returning home last week.

Dauphin County 4-H'ers go West

HARRISBURG — On July 23, twenty four Dauphin County 4-H'ers and their chaperones left the Harrisburg Airport for Dodge City, Kansas. These 4-H'ers will live in the homes of 4-H'ers in Kansas for nine days.

This exchange will be highlighted by trips to Historic Dodge City, meat packing plants, and the High Plains Rodeo, according to Fred Rudy, Dauphin County extension agent

The 4-H'ers are Barb and Rick Baker, Elizabethtown; Brenda Bratina, Harrisburg, Ken and Karen Brandt, Hershey, Calvin Dimpsey, Halifax, Grayson Fair, Harrisburg, David Feidt, Millersburg; Brenda and Dale Fisher, Hummelstown; Brenda Hensley, Harrisburg; Kurt and Keith Hess, Elizabethtown; Eric Kreider, Palmyra, Faith Lafferty, Lykens; John Lesher, Lykens, Dwayne Messick, Middletown, Charlene Mock, Middletown, Doug Shope, Middletown, Kaye Sweigard, Halifax; Greg Taylor, Elizabethtown, Craig and Tony Williams, Middletown; and Tammy Yost, Hershey

The chaperones are Tom and Theresa Williams, Middletown; Catherine Fisher, Hummelstown, and Fred and Linda Rudy of Harrisburg

Next year a delegation from Kansas will visit Dauphin County in the second year of this cultural exchange

Duncan named senior agent

CARLISLE — Duane G Duncan, Cumberland County Extension agent on Penn State University's Extension Service staff, has been promoted to the rank of senior Extension agent.

Thomas B. King, Penn State associate dean for extension, who announced the promotion, points out that an internal rank system provides recognition for county Extension staff members who are conducting outstanding educational programs.

King notes that senior Extension agent is the highest rank attained in county Extension work

Duncan, a native of Fairview, Erie County, has been a member of the extension service staff since 1958. He served in Adams County until his promotion to county extension director in 1967

He earned a bachelor of science degree from Penn State in 1958, majoring in agricultural education

Duncan's educational programs center primarily in the areas of dairy, community development, farm management, youth, and farm-city relations

Duane C. Duncan

He is past president of the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents and served the organization as chairman of numerous committees.

The new senior Extension agent is a member of Epsilon Sigma Phi, national honorary extension fraternity, Delta Theta Sigma, agricultural social fraternity, and Pennsylvania and National Associations of County Agricultural Agents

U.S. continues dry in growing areas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There was some rain in key growing areas of Canada and Mexico this past week but not enough to eliminate the dryness problems that are harming crop and livestock development in those countries and in the United States, according to a report issued Tuesday by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility of the U.S. Departments of Commerce and Agriculture. In major parts of Europe and the USSR, on the other hand, excess moisture has been hurting crop growth.

Highlights of the weekly report follow:

UNITED STATES. The heat wave has continued from Texas to the Central Great Plains and is now spreading across the Southeast and into the Western Corn Belt with mixed effects on agriculture.

In the Great Plains, short soil moisture supplies have severely limited forage production for the cattle industry, but the wheat harvest is progressing rapidly. Cotton growth has been speeded by the hot weather in the Delta region but has slowed in the dryland fields of Texas.

Crops at this point are generally in good condition from Iowa into the Ohio River Valley, the Nation's prime corn and soybean region.

CANADA. Scattered rainfall helped crops in Canada's grain belt, though the southeastern and central spring wheat areas are still badly in need of additional moisture. Canada's grain belt encompasses much of the southern portions of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

MEXICO. Showers continued to relieve drought conditions in northwestern Mexico where rice, soybean, and cotton crops rely heavily on irrigation. Additional moisture is needed to sustain water supplies since rainfall throughout June was well below normal. The heat wave has severely stressed crops and livestock in northern Mexico.

USSR. Weather conditions varied considerably in the USSR this past week. Southeastern areas of the winter grain belt experienced good harvest weather. To the north and west, however, a band of above-normal rainfall interfered with winter grain harvesting in Moldavia and the central Ukraine.

Wet weather has been a problem in much of the Ukraine throughout the spring; June rainfall was nearly three times normal over an extensive area.

Dry, warm weather, on the other hand, has continued to hamper development of spring grains and sunflowers in southeastern portions of the Volga Valley.

Wet weather continued to compensate for early season dryness in eastern spring grain areas of the New Lands.

EUROPE. Winter grains and row crops are suffering as heavy rains continue to plague northeastern countries. Cool, wet weather has persisted over the northeastern half of Europe since early June, when rainfall was 50 percent above normal, and crop development continues to lag.

Guernsey Field Day set for Tuesday

WILLOW STREET — This year the annual Guernsey Field Day will be held Tuesday, August 5 at the farm of Ken and Thelma Garber. The Garbers have 63 cows and a rolling herd average of close to 12,000 pounds of milk.

The judging will begin at 10:15 a.m. with Dick Staner from Crumdale Farm serving as judge. Prizes will be given to the top four winners in each division.

Our meal will be furnished by Herr's Barbecue Service at an approximate cost of $3.50 a person. This includes 1.25 pounds of chicken, macaroni salad, applesauce, roll/butter, chips and ice cream.

The 4-H will provide cupcakes and drink. The Garbers will provide the milk.

Once again, we will be having a calf drawing contest, the calf will be coming from the herd of Francis Kirk. The drawing will be open to anyone who lives on a farm and is in 4-H or FFA.

Our speaker will be Steve Leiser, a former vo-ag instructor who is now working with Pennfield Feeds.

Directions to Garbers: Eshelman Mill Road is located about one quarter mile south of the Rt. 222-272 intersection. Turn on Eshelman Mill Road, go to the first farm on the right.

Montgomery 4-H Fair August 20-23

NORRISTOWN — The annual Montgomery County 4-H Fair will be held on August 20-23 at the Montgomery County 4-H Center located on Snyder Road near Lansdale.

The Fair is open to the public and features displays of handiwork such as clothing, woodworking, crafts, foods, model rockets and many other projects in addition to the many animal and livestock show entries all of which have been either raised, cared for, trained or created by the county youth in the 4-H program. In addition, several classes will be open to 4-H Alumni and parents.

Ceremonies will start at 7 p.m. with the presentation of the Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl in the County, Eric Jones of Schwenksville and Mary Pat McGann of Upper Dublin. Following this will be the presentation of a special program called Hoofbeats Through History, a colorful and entertaining depiction of the horse and its involvement in man's history and development. Costumed riders will show the use of the horse in sport, war, work and other areas of history.

At the conclusion of the horse program, the exhibit building will open to the public to view the many projects that the members will have on display. The Livestock Club's Steer Show will start at 7 p.m. in the main tent area. Here members will be judged on their ability to groom and show their animals as well as on the merit of the steer.

Also on Wednesday evening, there will be a mini-fashion show, several live demonstrations and a rabbit and cavy showmanship contest. The building will close at 9:30 p.m.

The Fair activities will start on Thursday morning with a rabbit and cavy bowl contest followed by the dairy show. A 4-H dairy goat show will also be featured in the afternoon. The exhibit building will open at 1 p.m.

The annual sheep show will start at 6:30 p.m. in the main tent while the horse grooming and showmanship contest will begin in the horse show ring at 7 p.m. In the evening a special Seeing Eye Puppy Club demonstration will take place in the building along with other presentations.

An outdoor film festival is open to all and will feature free films such as the Little Rascals cartoons and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow. The films will start at dusk. All are invited to bring lawn chairs and enjoy the evening.

Friday begins with the rabbit and cavy show at 9 a.m. till noon. All area youngsters are invited to bring their pets to the open pet parade to start at 9:30 a.m. Ribbons will be awarded in classes such as best groomed, largest, closest to the ground and many more. There will also be a costume class. There will be a 50 cent entry fee per animal entered. Due to health regulations, no poultry, pet birds or livestock can be entered. All animals must be in good health and all cats and dogs must have their innoculations and rabies shots up to date.

The afternoon agenda will include a petting zoo, large animal dress up contest and the Eastern Pa. 4-H Horse Production Show. A fun Olympics will be held and is open to all youth. Additional activities include a celebrity goat milking contest, a club banner contest and a family picnic. For everyone's entertainment, a special exhibit of Paso Fino horses will begin at 7:30 p.m. followed by a 4-H talent show.

Saturday will feature an all-day horse show. All other exhibits and animals will be removed by Friday evening in order to make room for the horses.

All the events at the fair are open to the public for viewing. For more information and a Fair Program, contact the 4-H Office at 215/277-0574.

Crop growth lags, moisture barely adequate

HARRISBURG — Rain showers early in the week ending July 28 gave way to clear skies and five days suitable for farm fieldwork in the Commonwealth, but even with the thundershowers, soil moisture and crop growth were lagging last year, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Farmers were active in a variety of fieldwork, including picking apples and peaches, digging potatoes, combining oats, wheat and barley, making hay, baling straw and filling silos.

Early crop cabbage was being harvested, while late crop planting was being completed. Potato growth was reported as being slowed by the dry soils. Some Japanese beetle damage was reported in grapes.

The state's corn crop fell behind last year's progress for the first time in July, as corn averages 51 inches, compared to 54 inches last year. Northern areas report an average corn height of 50 inches, central corn is at 48 inches, and the southern corn fields stand at 58 inches.

Soil moisture was rated as mostly short to adequate throughout the Commonwealth. Northern farmers benefited most from the rain, rating soils at 59 percent adequate to 23 percent surplus. Central Pennsylvania farmers reported 76 percent short and 12 percent adequate and southern farmers reported 67 percent short and 33 percent adequate soil moisture.

Hay quality was rated as good to fair for the week, but worries about the amount of a third cutting were reported. Northern farmers rated hay quality as 70 percent fair to 20 percent good, while central operators rated their hay as 69 percent good to 25 percent fair. Those in the south rated hay at 62 percent good to 25 percent fair.

Feed from pastures dropped to 51 percent below average throughout the state. Northern areas were listed as 40 percent below average and 40 percent average. In central areas, feed from pasture was rated 59 percent below average to 41 percent average while in the south, pastures were rated 62 percent below average and 38 percent average.

Barley harvest was nearing completion, at 11 percent ripe and 89 percent harvested. Last year, six percent was turning yellow, 14 percent was ripe and 80 percent was harvested. In the north, barley was 24 percent ripe and 76 percent harvested, while harvest was virtually complete in both the central and southern areas.

Wheat was 43 percent ripe and 56 percent harvested throughout the state, ahead of last year's seven percent turning, 49 percent ripe and 44 percent harvested. Northern farmers reported 79 percent ripe and 21 percent harvested. In central areas, wheat was reported 33 percent ripe and 66 percent harvested, while in southern areas, the wheat crop was seven percent ripe and 93 percent harvested.

Oats were reported as nine percent headed, 41 percent turning, 36 percent ripe and 14 percent harvested throughout the state, continuing ahead of last year's 14 percent headed, 52 percent turning, 25 percent ripe and six percent harvested. Northern Pennsylvania reported 18 percent headed, 60 turning, 20 percent ripe and traces harvested. In central areas, 23 percent was turning, 47 percent was ripe and 26 percent was harvested, while southern farmers reported 39 percent turning, 43 percent ripe and 18 percent harvested.

Clo-tim harvest was virtually complete in all areas. Second cutting of alfalfa was at 57 percent, compared to 46 percent last year. In the north, harvest was at 36 percent, while central and southern farmers reported 76 and 78 percent harvested, respectively.

Fuel supplies on Pennsylvania farms were again rated adequate to surplus. LP gas and gasoline were both rated at 85 percent adequate and 15 percent surplus, while diesel fuel was rated 90 percent adequate.

DAVID'S DAUGHTER, SUE, SAYS:

"We've fed High Moisture Corn out of a silo since 1974, and our test always dropped as the weather got warmer because of feed spoilage in the conventional silo. The test dropped as low as 3.2 sometimes. That hasn't happened since switching to High Moisture Corn out of a HARVESTORE®. Finish 10 days sooner on 32 pounds less feed.

Weight Lifter™ puts the amino acids in balance.

Wayne® Weight Lifter™ feeds are different from ordinary protein formulations. They balance the amino acid requirements precisely. So your pigs get the right amount required to grow into strong, efficient hogs.

And reduced amino acid excess means no costly protein wastes. Just 15% protein savings.

Research and field tests show Weight Lifter improves hogs' efficiency, resulting in 7.4% better feed conversion and 9.1% increase in average daily gain. That means hogs should be ready for market 10 days sooner on 32 pounds less feed.

Weight Lifter fits your feeding system.

Use Weight Lifter for your breeding stock, weaned pigs and finishing hogs. It's the convenient feeding program that reduces your feed inventory and labor.

Get on the Weight Lifter Program. It's proven to increase hogs' efficiency and reduce protein costs.

State farm product sales reach $2.2 billion

LANCASTER — Sale of farm products in Pennsylvania amounted to $2.2 billion in 1978, according to the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The total is based on the preliminary results of the 1978 Census of Agriculture, which counted 59,973 farms in the State, with average per farm sales of $36,566; an average size of 146 acres; and average value of land and buildings $187,347.

Comparisons with totals from the previous census (1974) should be made with caution because of significant improvements in data collection procedures for 1978. Bureau officials believe that the improvement in data collection had a much greater effect on the count of farms than on measures of agricultural production. The improvements are discussed further below.

While Pennsylvania farm product sales climbed 46 percent from $1.5 billion in 1974, farmers' expenses also grew, with feed purchased for livestock and poultry up from $340.7 to $433.5 million in 1978; hired farm labor from $112.8 to $177.8 million; and gasoline and other petroleum products from $58.1 to $90.4 million.

The total energy cost for Pennsylvania farms amounted to $129 million. The market value of all machinery and equipment went up 59 percent from $1.1 to $1.8 billion four years later.

Livestock and their products brought a return of $1.2 billion, 55 percent of Pennsylvania's total farm sales, compared with $828.8 million in 1974.

Dairy product sales from 16,026 farms brought $762.7 million. The inventory of 662,800 milk cows was down from 670,600 in 1974.

Pennsylvania's total cattle and calves inventory 1,736,400 also was down from 1,732,500 in 1974, but the 943,900 sold from 37,500 farms in 1978 was ahead of the 824,700 sold in 1974. Twenty-nine percent were fattened on grain and concentrates. The inventory included 179,900 beef cows, compared with 192,300 in 1974.

A total inventory of 811,900 hogs, 95,600 for breeding purposes, was counted on 12,741 Pennsylvania farms, with 1.3 million reported sold, of which 338,100 were feeder pigs. Approximately two percent or 308 farms reported 500 or more hogs and pigs, accounting for 33 percent of the State's total inventory.

Inventory of sheep and lambs on 3,176 farms was reported at 102,100 head, with 80,700 shorn, yielding 557,200 pounds of wool, and 62,800 head sold.

The horses and ponies inventory increased from 45,700 to 62,000.

Sales of poultry and their products amounted to $335.8 million, compared with $220 million in 1974. Broilers sold increased from 56.5 to 87.3 million birds in 1978, and chickens three months or older went up from 14.3 to 18 million. Hens and pullets of laying age gained from 12.4 to 15.7 million. Turkeys sold from 398 farms were reported at 4 million birds.

Crops brought a return of $648.5 million, compared with $448.2 million in 1974. Hay, the leading crop in acreage, was cut from 2 million acres, yielding 4.5 million tons, compared with 1.6 million acres and 3.6 million tons in 1974.

Corn placed second on an acreage basis, 1.2 million acres producing 115.5 million bushels. Corn for silage or green chop was the third ranking crop with 429,100 acres yielding 6.6 million tons.

Other field crops were oats, 310,700 acres; wheat, 195,600 acres; barley, 86,200 acres; and soybean, 77,100 acres.

Other measures of Pennsylvania farms also portrayed gains as the average value of land and buildings per acre climbed from $734 to $1273; and total cropland went up from 5.3 to 5.8 million acres in 1978.

Additional facets of Pennsylvania farm as depicted in the 1978 Census of Agriculture include the following:

Ninety percent or 54,033 of the 59,973 farms were operated by individuals or families, 4,752 by partnerships, and 981 by corporations, of which 864 were family held.

Ninety-one percent of the operators owned all or part of the farms they operated, with 38,324 fully owned, 16,473 partly owned, and 5,176 operated by tenants.

Farming was the principal occupation of 31,498 or 53 percent of the operators, while 28,475 spent most of their work time at a nonfarm occupation.

Eighty-nine percent of the operators who reported place of residence lived on the farm they operated.

Some 2,881 farms, five percent, were operated by women, as revealed by a question on sex of operator asked for the first time.

Pennsylvania farmers were younger on the average than in 1974, 49.8 years compared with 50.6.

Farm product sales of $100,000 or more were recorded by 7 percent or 4,337 farms; 14,643 sold $40,000 or more; 21,151 had sales above $20,000; and 38,822 had sales of less than $20,000.

Lancaster farm product sales exceed $400,000,000

LANCASTER — The 1978 market value of agricultural products sold by the 4915 farms in Lancaster County amounted to $405.5 million or an average of $82,510 each, up from $251.7 million in 1974.

There was an accompanying increase in production costs, according to a preliminary report of the 1978 Census of Agriculture released today by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

A breakdown of the county's total agricultural sales for 1978 followed by that for 1974, is as follows: crops, $50.1 million compared with $39.8 million; livestock and livestock products, $224.9 and $136.6 million; poultry and poultry products, $130.6 and $75.2 million.

While the value of gross sales rose, the farmers' costs also climbed since 1974.

Expenditures for feed for livestock and poultry for 1978 were $118.1 million compared to $79.9 million; costs of gasoline, diesel and other petroleum products were $7.4 million compared to $5.1 million. Farm energy costs of all types totaled $11.1 million for 1978.

The estimated market value of machinery and equipment per farm increased from $20,328 to $28,688.

Of the total farms in the county, 915 had gross sales of $100,000 or more and 976 had sales of under $10,000. Farms operated by individuals or families represented 89 percent of the total; farms operated by corporations accounted for three percent.

Some 82 percent of the operators owned all or part of the land they operated.

In 1978 the average age of farm operators was 44.3 years. Since 1974 the proportion of operators listing farming as their principal occupation changed from 78 percent to 75 percent.

Other results of the census show that the number of farms increased from 4588 to 4915, while the average size remained at 87 acres. All land in farms totaled 425,561 acres in 1978 compared to 399,785 acres in 1974.

Land from which crops were harvested increased from 285,284 to 311,021 acres.

The number of cattle and calves increased from 207,944 to 237,221; while those with 100 or more on hand accounted for 46 percent. Fed cattle accounted for 53 percent of the total 182,927 cattle and calves sold in 1978.

Sales of dairy products were reported by 1978 farms and totaled $104.1 million. The number of milk cows reported was 82,295 in 1978 vs. 71,598 in 1974.

The number of hogs and pigs changed from 131,243 to 256,997 in 1978. Of the total 420,357 hogs and pigs sold in 1978, 94,671 were sold as feeder pigs.

Hens and pullets of laying age increased from 3.9 to 7.3 million. Of the hens and pullets of laying age, 6.3 million were on farms having 10,000 or more on hand. Broiler production increased from 27.2 million to 38.1 million. There were 312,740 turkeys sold in 1978.

Acreages of crops harvested for 1978 and 1974 were as follows: corn for grain, 120,314 acres vs. 105,930 acres; wheat, 22,426 acres vs. 27,559 acres; hay 82,010 acres vs. 68,376 acres; tobacco, 10,685 acres vs. 9,578 acres; barley, 9,779 acres; corn silage, 63,399 acres in 1978.

Production of corn for 1978 was 13.8 million bushels compared to 11.1 million bushels in 1974.

The figures are for farms qualifying under the definition: Any place from which $1000 or more of agricultural products were sold, or normally would have been sold, during the census year.

Data in the reports for acreage and inventories for 1978 and 1974 are directly comparable; however, dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels.

FRISTAMAT FULLY AUTOMATIC FARM VENTILATION

The FRISTAMAT system has been developed specially for the ventilation of livestock accommodation combining in one unit all the functions of a fully automatic ventilating plant supply exhaust automatic temperature control and if desired heating and humidity regulation Owing to its flexibility and regulating properties the system may be used in houses of widely differing sizes and construction and for all kinds of animals

The functions of the FRISTAMAT system are automatic so that the installation will only require a minimum of attention

- Balanced ventilating system with re circulation
- Draughtless ventilation
- Constant room air motion
- Constant temperature throughout the building
- No risk of cold downdraughts
- Unaffected by weather and wind conditions (no wall inlets)
- Adaptable for any shape of building
- The air volume can be adapted to suit varying stocking rates in the house
- Condensation - and corrosion-proof

SPRINKLER COOLING SYSTEM
(Not fogger)
FOR HOGS

The sprinkle cycle is turned on automatically whenever the barn temperature rises above a preset level 72° F Throughout this "on" period the control functions to permit sprinkling to occur for a preset time period each hour (2 minutes/hour is recommended for best results) When the Barn temperature drops below 72° F the cycle is automatically interrupted.

The nozzles are clamped to a plastic pipe strung over the gutter or slatted area at the rear of the pen. Each nozzle covers a 5-6 foot diameter area which usually means one nozzle per pen The nozzle assures a coarse droplet spray pattern which is important for maximum cooling A fine mist or fog is not desirable in geographical areas of generally high summer relative humidity

BVD vaccine risky?

A reader asks:

What are the risks of inducing abortions in my cows using a modified live virus BVD vaccine?

Dr. Trayer comments:

BVD, bovine viral diarrhea, is a disease that, if left uncontrolled, can run wild in your cow herd and can lead to production and financial losses, through abortions, resorption of fetuses, and cow death.

If BVD has been identified as being a problem in your herd, there are effective vaccination programs available to combat the disease. The recommendations found on the labels of all the vaccinating products on the market to date of modified live virus BVD stipulate that it be given only to open cattle.

However, this intramuscular injection of vaccine has been shown by research to cause resorption or mummification of the fetus if administered during the first and second trimester of pregnancy.

During the first trimester, if injected, the cow will probably come back into heat and you will reservice her. In this case, the fetus was resorbed and there will be no visible signs of the fetus on the ground.

During the second trimester, a mummified fetus results — all the moisture has been drawn away from the fetus and all that is seen is a piece of skin or dried up bones.

An injection of BVD modified live virus during the third trimester has mixed results. Before you pursue vaccination at this time, you should consult your local veterinarian.

My across-the-board recommendation is that the modified live virus BVD vaccine be used only when indicated in the herd — that is, there has been a positive diagnosis of BVD.

And then use it only as the label directs. Do not use it as it is often recommended by unqualified personnel, with no experience in the area.

By just going up and down the line and injecting open and pregnant animals, you will have abortions, mummified fetuses, abnormalities of legs, heads, and feet, and an increased number of services to conceptions due to resorbed fetuses along with other reproductive problems.

Therefore, I strongly recommend that before you start your vaccination program you consult with your veterinarian and have a complete understanding of the disease you're trying to prevent or control. Then follow through with the vaccinations, but use the product properly.

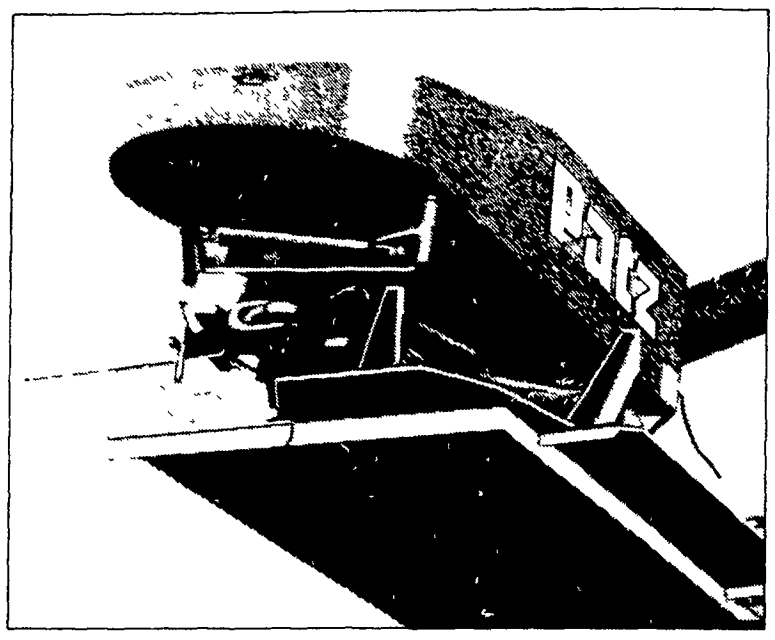
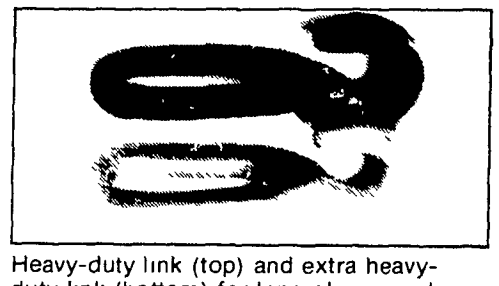
THE PATZ SOLUTION:





Heavy-duty link (top) and extra heavy-duty link (bottom) for long chains and heavy loads

Use slotted covers over Patz gutter cleaners in farrowing, nursery and finishing pens

Automated Hog Manure Handling

Consider installing a Patz gutter cleaner under your farrowing crates and under partially slated nursery and finishing pens. Daily cleaning minimizes buildup of noxious gases, contributes to warm, dry, draft-free buildings, and allows improved sanitation.

The secret to Patz performance is the proven one-piece forged steel hook-and-eye link that lets you remove a link or replace links and flites by hand, without tools.

And the Patz flexible layout system allows you to clean up to four gutters in various configurations, delivering manure to your spreader, storage area or manure pump.

Before you choose a hog manure handling system, take a close look at Patz. You'll find Patz performance means fewer problems for you, and more time to manage your hog operation for greater profit.

Youth for understanding seeking hosts

LANCASTER — Youth for Understanding, a non-profit international student exchange program, needs host families in the community for students arriving from Europe and Latin America. Students will attend local high schools and share daily life with host families, participating, as family members, not as guests.

A typical YFU student is a teenager, eager to learn, highly motivated and interested in improving world relations (as well as discovering the joys of fast food).

YFU Program fees and students' personal expenses are provided by the Students' natural families - host families provide room, board and love!

YFU was founded in 1951 and since then has arranged for more than 70,000 student exchanges in 24 countries. Students are carefully selected and matched with host families and areawide regional volunteers provide support services and guidance throughout the exchange experience.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

When you talk with farmers about retirement, you get some really interesting reactions

As a group, farmers seem to be less prepared for that eventual day than almost any other segment of society. After all, there is no mandatory age and you're talking about retiring from a business rather than a job.

Many of the farmers I've checked with on this topic have no plans at all when it comes to hanging it up It's a reality they're aware of, but simply haven't faced

The exception to that seems to be those farmers who have family involved in the business. In those cases there's usually a plan, well thought out or otherwise, that describes how someday when the owner-operator retires, the younger family member takes over.

Part of the great American agricultural dream involves a successful farmer bringing his sons or sons-in-law into the business — guiding them along as they develop towards the time when the farmer himself can start taking it a little easier

The father-son partnership is a traditional on American farms as bales of hay, and I would guess that nine out of 10 of today's young farmers are either farming with one or more parents, have taken over an operation upon the parents' retirement, or have inherited a farm After all, in today's high dollar farming there aren't many other ways to get started.

But what about the farmers who don't have sons or sons-in-law or whose offspring don't want to farm? What are they doing about retirement? In general, I would say not much

I recall a conversation a few months back with two brothers, both quite successful, large-scale operators, who farm in partnership with no obvious replacements when it comes their time to retire When asked, both agreed that they had no plans for retirement In fact, they don't even intend to retire

I suppose to die with one's overalls on in the midst of corn planting would be a glorious way to go, but it's not very realistic.

Over the past 50 years when today's older farmers were learning and practicing their trade, there wasn't much consideration given to retirement For many of those years farmers couldn't afford to retire In fact, they worked until they became disabled, physically or mentally, and then a loving, caring family member took over where they left off

But it's a different financial game these days and a farmer can't simply work until he's too old and then turn everything over to someone else without paying a heavy financial price.

A sensible solution to retirement and to the eventual turning over of a commercial farm requires a lot of time and consideration And it's certainly not something that can be left until the main man is in his seventies or eighties to decide for himself he's no longer able to make it to the tractor seat

Those farmers who have been at least moderately successful and who have someone else to take their place should be giving more thought to retirement. It's good for them and it's good for the next generation. And it's certainly not a death sentence

There are so many things farmers can do in retirement if they'll give it some thought and get unhitched from the idea that the farm won't work without them

Retiring from farming may be as simple as turning over the physical work to someone else while retaining management control. Or it may be as extreme as moving away and leaving the entire operation to the next generation

Some farmers retire by taking an off-farm job that gives them income and keeps them busy while continuing to live on the farm

Whatever the mode of retirement, there needs to be a clear-cut conscious decision where the farmer turns over certain tasks and makes certain commitments Otherwise, he really isn't retiring And that isn't fair to himself or to his replacement

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & WATER PUMP PARTS & SERVICE

Rebuilt TA assemblies for IH tractors from SMTA through 1586 Water pumps, clutches and pressure plates from A, B, C through 1586 and for many of the combines, 101 - 303 through the 915. The time to be comparing prices and parts availability is before you need them so that when you do need parts and service you are aware of the options

If you are operating a shop or are a farmer who does his own mechanical work, then you will do well to compare the parts which I have to offer Complete rebuilt TA assemblies for 706 - 1586 are priced from $525.00 and come with a Dana Co heavy Duty Sprag clutch instead of the usual IH spray The Dana Sprag was originally designed for high performance aircraft and Helicopter applications and is designed not to roll over, one of the main causes of torque failure

Also have available assorted parts for TA's which are not available through new parts at IH I am prepared to do complete installation of these parts at competitive prices and will match any guarantee that is offered on TA units or rebuilt clutches, pressure plates & water pumps Prices on rebuilt clutches, pressure plates and water pumps are approximately 30 - 50% below new

If you think you may have problems with your TA and would like it checked out or some questions answered call or write me Trucking is available up to most any distance at fair rates if we have enough advance notice. Two or more tractors on same load will receive discount on the trucking

Cooperatives name winners in 1980 youth institute

WEST CHESTER — Alan England, Oxford; Duane Hershey, Cochranville; Susan Kulp, Pottstown; John Darron Ryan, Upper Darby, Delaware County; Jeff Stoltzfus, Atglen and Ivan Yost, Christiana; have been named winners in the Cooperative One-Day Institute.

They will represent this area at the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives Youth Institute and National Institute on Cooperative Education to be held at Penn State, August 9 to 14.

Lee and Judy Brown of Oxford, a young married couple, have also been selected to attend.

The winners will attend the Penn State conferences under the sponsorship of the Chester-Delaware Cooperative Council.

Winners were selected on the basis of their knowledge of the business enterprise system in America, the cooperative way of doing business, and on activities of the participants identifying them with school, community, church, and youth organizations.

The state and national institutes are designed to teach youth more about current issues facing farmer cooperatives, to help in planning their future by pointing out career possibilities in agribusiness, and provide opportunities for individual leadership development.

Approximately 60 young adults, representing the best of over 4000 participants in the annual PAFC youth education program, will attend the six-day event.

The institutes are a joint effort of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives, local Cooperative Councils, and the Penn State College of Agriculture.

A total of 27 local boys and girls took part in this year's cooperative program sponsored by the Chester-Delaware Cooperative Council.

The National Institute on Cooperative Education is one of the University conferences selected to be part of the official observance of the 125th Anniversary year of Penn State.

Goat meeting in Allenwood

ALLENWOOD — The Heart of Penn Dairy Goat Breeders' Co-op will meet at the Dean Showers Farm near here at 8 p.m. today.

Subjects to be discussed are milk marketing program progress and a Christmas kid sale.

The program after the business meeting will be a round-table discussion "getting Ready For Breeding Season."

For directions to the meeting contact the Showers at 717/547-6987 or Robert Molaro at 717/758-8359.

The satisfaction that comes from doing a good job of farming

It's a great feeling to know that you are the master of your farmlands . . that when you treat your soil right, it will treat you right Liming is one of the most important factors in keeping your soil in the highest productive range By raising the pH from a level below 6 0 to 6.5 or higher, you can expect to harvest .8 more tons of alfalfa per acre, with similar increases for all other forage and cash crops

Berks Holstein Club holds annual picnic

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

ROBESONIA — Members of the Berks County Holstein Club took a day off from their work last Thursday to enjoy each others company at Hidden View Farms. Approximately 200 dairymen attended the annual picnic sponsored by the Association.

Hidden View Farms is owned and operated by Charles and Tim Kissling. Presently they are milking about 68 registered Holsteins and farm 267 acres.

Activities of the day other than the usual fun and games found at all picnics, included a tour of Kisslings modern dairy and feed room, and a judging contest. Official judge for the contest was Clifford Gibble, district manager of Curtis Breeding.

Following is a complete list of the results:

Juniors

1. Todd Miller, Hamburg; 2. Melissa Meyers, Kempton; 3. Steve Rohrbach, Shoemakersville; 4. Daryl Harnish, Richland; 5. Penny Bicksler, Richland; 5. Doris Stump, Bernville.

Women

1. Hershey Meyer, Kempton; 2. Barbara Bicksler, Richland; 3. Grace Seidel; 4. Joan Rohrbach, Shoemakersville; 5. Barbara O'Hara, Annville; 6. Jane Krick, Lenhartsville.

Men

1. J. Hershey Meyer; 2. Nelson Troutman, Richland; 3. George Schuler, Kutztown; 4. Forrest Stricker, Wernersville; 5. Ernest Miller, Hamburg; 6. Franklin Troutman, Womelsdorf.

Top place individuals were also picked in each division for production. These winners were: Juniors - Doyle Stump, Bernville; Women - Lillian Harnish, Richland; Men - Ray Bicksler, Richland.

Save Energy and get
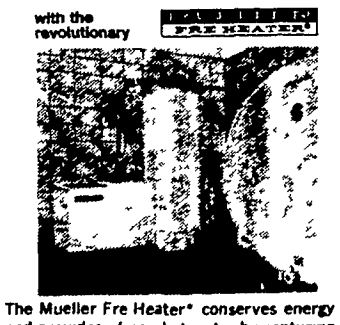
with the revolutionary FRE HEATER



The Mueller Fre Heater® conserves energy and provides free hot water by capturing the heat now wasted!

HERE S HOW IT WORKS
Rather than using noisy dust creating fans with fragile dirt collecting air cooled condensers the refrigerant is routed to a specially designed condenser/heat exchanger and its heat is transferred to the water
A thermostatically controlled valve delivers approximately 140°F water to the storage tank
In addition to the thermostatic valve a mixing valve is provided to permit prepping temperature water
Thus the Fre Heater delivers two temperatures of water — prepping and washing ELIMINATES REFRIGERATION SERVICE PROBLEMS!
The most common causes of slow cooling in milk cooling systems are related to the air cooled condenser

The Fre-Heater eliminates these problems because
- There is no air cooled condenser
- The Fre Heater is installed indoors
- There are no noisy fans to fail
- The head pressure is very stable — assuring longer compressor life
- There are no cold weather starting problems plus the Fre Heater conserves energy and produces Free Hot Water!

HOW MUCH HOT WATER CAN BE GENERATED?
There are many variables so this question cannot be answered directly however as a rule of thumb a Fre Heater operating on 60° F well water will produce a volume of approximately 140° F water similar to the amount of milk produced during a milking
For more information write for Literature No BC 210

WHAT YOU NEED IS A KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC

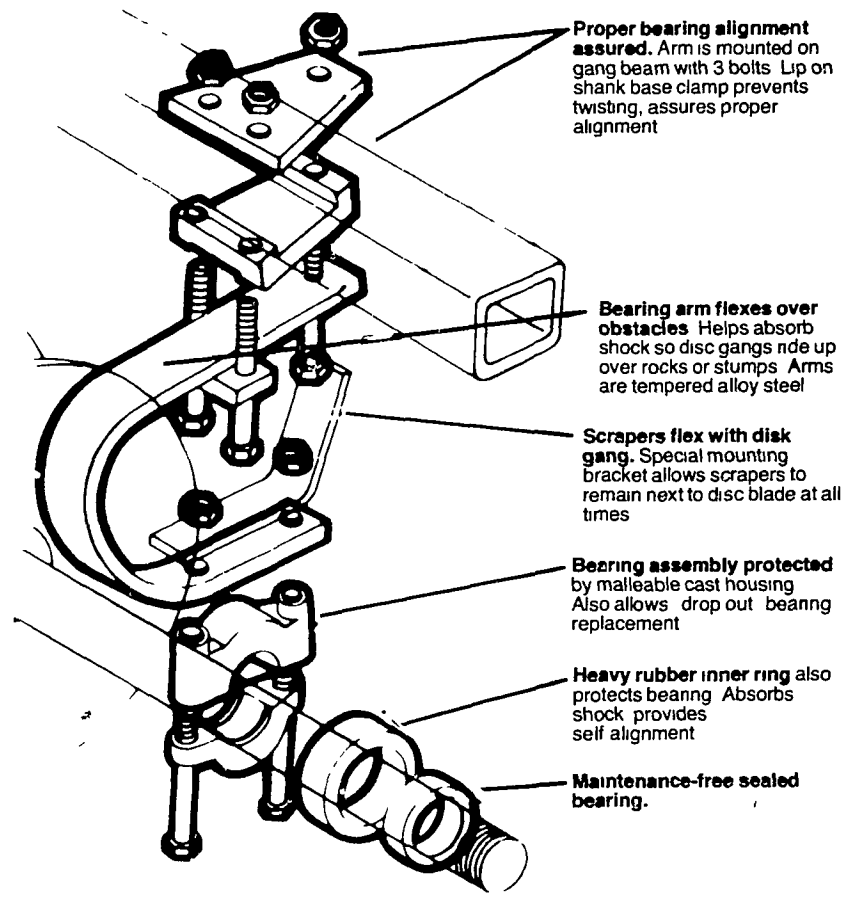
WHY?

BECAUSE OF KRAUSE SUPERIOR "ROCK-FLEX" BEARING ARM

AND HERE'S WHY IT MEANS GOOD NEWS FOR YOU!

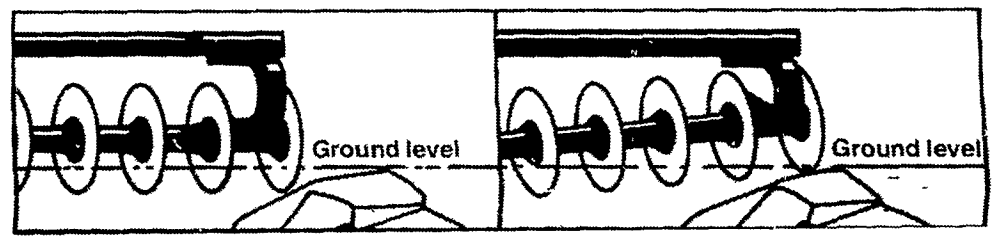
Unique C-shaped bearing arm:

- Flexes over obstacles
- Protects disc blades from breakage
- Protects tie rods from bending
- Protects spools from breakage
- Absorbs shock — minimizes bearing wear
- Improves trash clearance



Proper bearing alignment assured. Arm is mounted on gang beam with 3 bolts Lip on shank base clamp prevents twisting, assures proper alignment
Bearing arm flexes over obstacles Helps absorb shock so disc gangs ride up over rocks or stumps Arms are tempered alloy steel
Scrapers flex with disk gang. Special mounting bracket allows scrapers to remain next to disc blade at all times
Bearing assembly protected by malleable cast housing Also allows drop out bearing replacement
Heavy rubber inner ring also protects bearing Absorbs shock provides self alignment
Maintenance-free sealed bearing.

A Krause innovation! The "Rock-Flex" bearing arm was invented by Krause in 1965.



Normal working depth.

As disc encounters rock, C-arm compresses, allowing gang to ride up over obstacle.

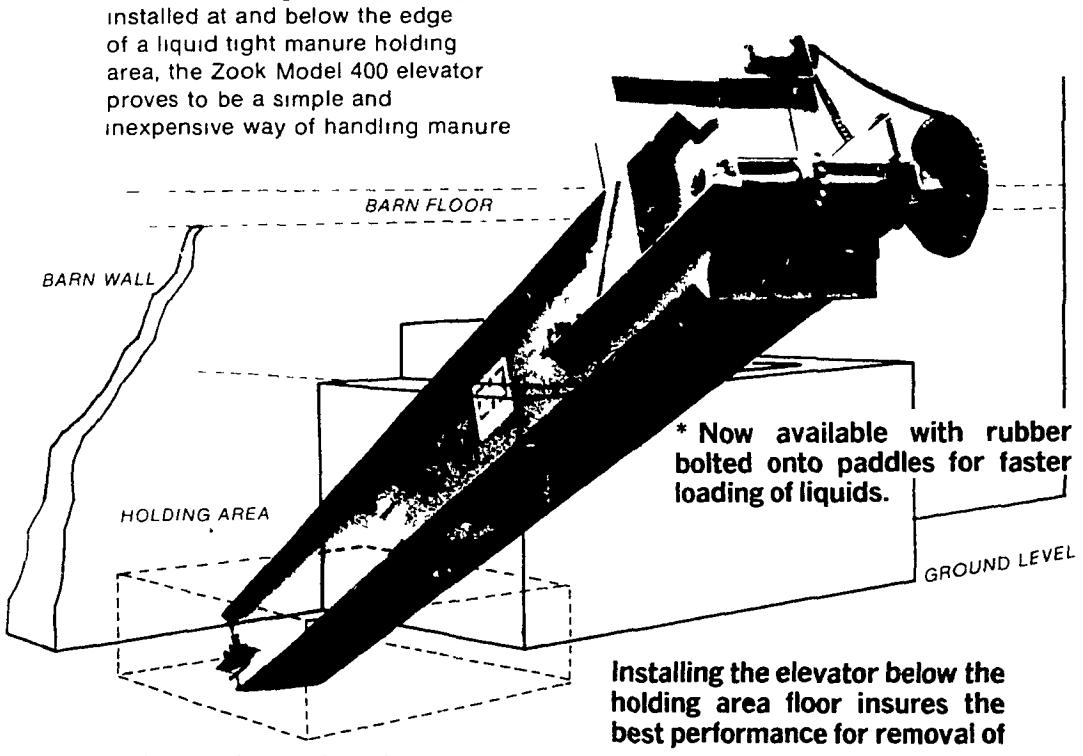
Manure Handling Equipment

Model 400 Manure Elevator

Here's a whole new concept in manure handling! When properly installed at and below the edge of a liquid tight manure holding area, the Zook Model 400 elevator proves to be a simple and inexpensive way of handling manure



* Now available with rubber bolted onto paddles for faster loading of liquids.

Installing the elevator below the holding area floor insures the best performance for removal of manure.

- Handles both liquid and semi-solid manure
- Few moving parts require almost no maintenance
- Corrosion resistant high strength Corten steel construction
- Self lubricating bottom end bearings

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite
1 Excellent bonding
2 High Density
3 Extreme strength and hardness
4 High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration

INTRODUCING

RUMA PASS

The complete dairy feed that cuts protein costs while maintaining your milk production.

If you think high milk production requires high protein, think again.

New Master Mix Ruma Pass for corn and sorghum silage feeding programs lets you feed less protein without a loss in milk production. So you save on protein while your cows continue producing at their present level.

Ruma Pass contains by-pass proteins which are not easily digested in the rumen, but are readily digested in the small intestine. The net result is more usable protein with less waste.

And you pocket the savings.

Isn't it time you had a protein break?

Four Lancaster girls neatly tucked district wins away

These 4-H'ers 'seam' to enjoy sewing

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

A love of sewing and attention to detail are the common threads which bind the Lancaster countians who won the 4-H Capitol Region Fashion Review last week. Each of the three senior winners and the junior winner worked long hours on making the smallest features of their garment perfect - and the patience paid off in the reward of being a top winner for the eight-county area.

Jennie Phillips, Lori Kenepp and Beka Baum will travel to 4-H State Days at Penn State next week and compete for the opportunity to travel to 4-H Congress in Chicago. Stephanie Schaich, the junior division winner from the County does not compete further but will be eligible next year.

Sixteen-year-old Jennie Phillips, 222 Spruce Street, New Holland, is a two-time winner, and she exemplifies the attitude of the seamstresses as they select and complete their garments for 4-H. Jennie admits with a laugh that her ultimate goal is to go to Chicago and says to keep herself going she makes huge signs such as, "This could be your way to Penn State." She adds, "When I'm sewing I don't turn on the television. I get some nice music and keep sewing."

In her sixth year with the Garden Spot 4-H Club, Jennie selected a skirt and blazer of 95 percent polyester and five percent nylon and a 100 percent polyester dobbie weave blouse for her Create with Fabrics project. She describes is as a "business suit, nice and clean cut." It is her work on the blouse that sets apart a winner from an average sewer. The blouse fabric has dots woven into the material and to ensure identical cuffs, Jennie counted the minute dots until she had 17 one way and 50 around the cuff. Each cuff is perfect and folded exactly along a row of dots.

Surprisingly, the outfit was not Jennie's first choice for her 4-H project. She wanted to work with a new fabric and decided on a velveteen jacket and wool skirt. However, she never found just the right wool for the skirt, so she changed her mind and upon entering a fabric store she spotted her winning combination of fabrics.

When selecting her garment she says, "I tried to keep in mind what the judges might like."

Jennie's sewing on her 4-H project came mostly in the evenings because she holds down a fulltime job as lifeguard at the New Holland community pool. She also found time to attend 4-H Leadership Congress at Penn State, take a CPR course and an advanced first aid class this summer. She said, "I did most of the sewing during the night and I spent a few nights sewing all night. When I'm sewing at night I get really picky and I want it just right." For moral support, her mother slept on the sofa by the sewing machine so Jennie could wake her and ask advice as needed.

President of the New Holland Club, Jennie is also a teen leader in the skirt project.

Sewing is a joy for Jennie. When asked the advantages of home sewing, she replied without hesitating, "Seventeen dots one way and 50 the other." Then she added, "You don't have threads sticking out all over and seams don't pull out. Your clothes fit better and you don't have to spend hours trying on clothes and still come home without anything. I also save a lot of money."

To choose her wardrobe, Jennie says, "I get magazines and I go to good stores and look and decide what I'd like to have. I like having new clothes." She says she now has many basic patterns which she uses without altering.

At Garden Spot High School where she'll be a junior in September, Jennie is a member of the rifle team and works with Junior Achievement, something she calls the "high point of the year." She does statistics for basketball and baseball and sings in the chorus. This year she says she plans to concentrate on her studies with an eye on college.

Jennie starts planning her next year's 4-H project in the fall and winter, saying she likes to make a garment for fall and fabric is readily available in stores. "I like complication in my outfits. I like something that looks like I put a lot into it. The work always pays off." She also reflects, "You don't remember the bad times after you've made the outfit. Now it doesn't seem so bad."

Jennie is quick to credit the leaders of her 4-H Club for part of her success. Her mother is one of the many talented leaders of this club which seems to have an edge on winning. Jennie explains, "We have excellent leaders and have talented girls coming up. You have to have a knack for it."

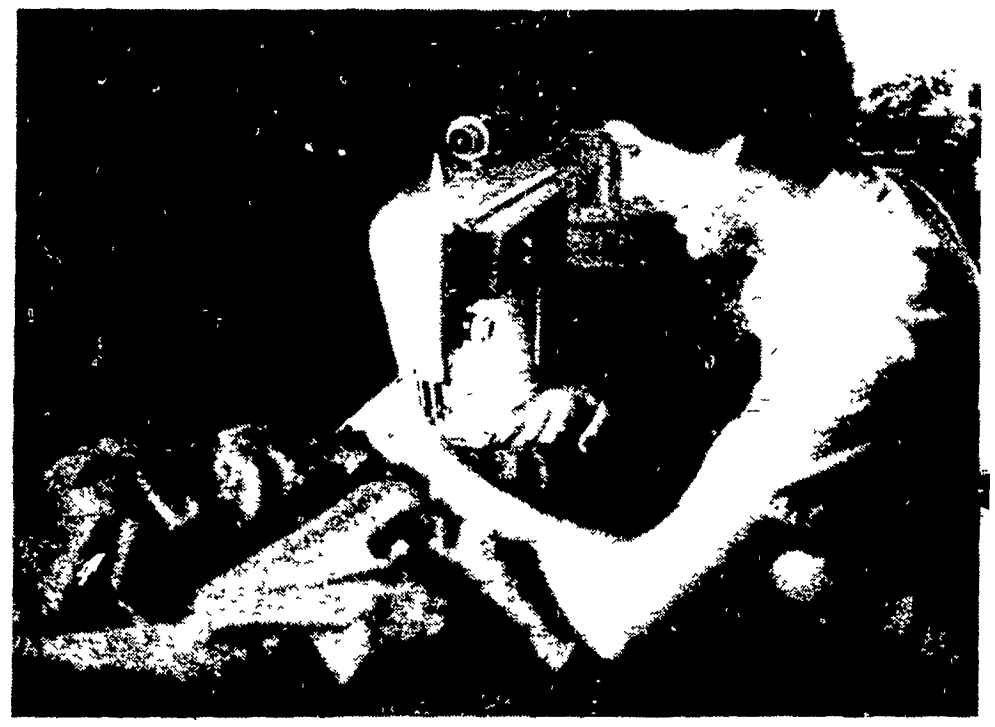
Fifteen-year-old Lori Kenepp, New Holland R3, quickly agrees with Jennie's assessment of her 4-H club leaders. Also a six-year veteran of the Garden Spot Club, Lori says, "I call on my leaders if I have questions as I sew." "They are really particular," Lori's mother says with respect.

Lori was also particular, and needed a lot of patience as she worked. She chose a Vogue pattern which features lace collar and tucks, and after sewing half of the 56 tucks on the front bodice, discovered that the pattern did not match at the shoulders. After consultation with her leaders and some minute measuring, the answer was to redo the bodice, leaving out some of the required tucks. The dress came out beautifully, but Lori has written a letter to the company.

"I did the whole dress in one week," Lori says. "I lived at the sewing machine." She also works parttime at the Good and Plenty Restaurant.

She will be traveling to Penn State next week, and says, "Jennie's been telling me

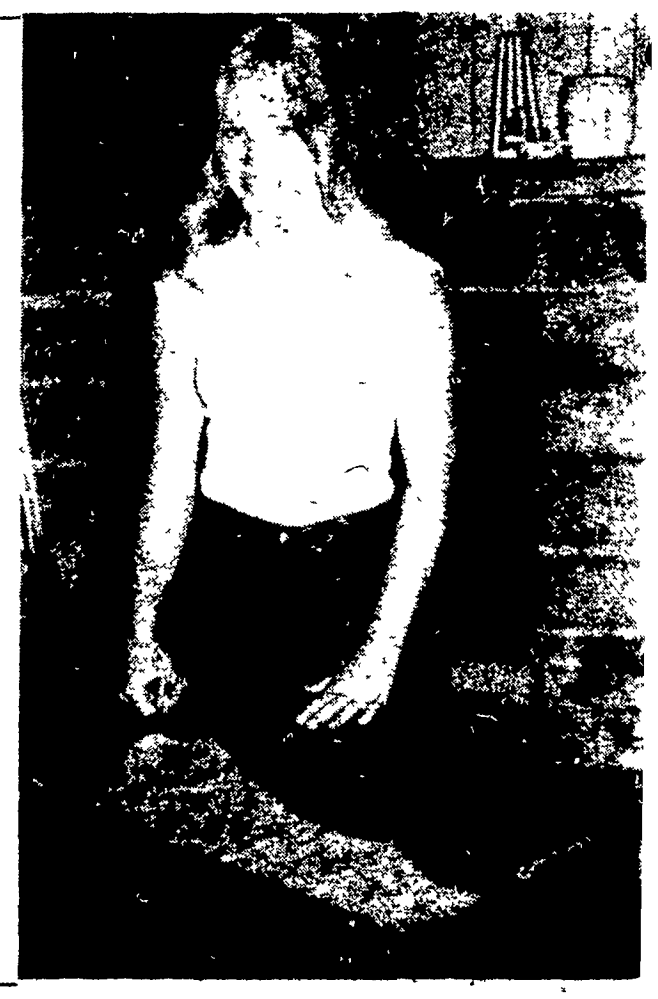
(Turn to Page C4)



Beka Baum, 15, works on a new garment. Her last featured 160 pin tucks at the neckline and waist, and took long hours of work and untold patience.

Ideas for projects come from everywhere. Here Stephanie studies some pattern books to choose just the right garment to have a winning combination.

Hand sewing is a large part of these professional-looking 4-H projects. Lori works in the family room of her home, as she checks out the hem on her dress.



An enthusiastic sewer, Jennie Phillips, 16, cuts out another garment which she'll add to her school wardrobe.

about it, but I'm having trouble believing it. I really wasn't expecting it."

Lori also had the experience of not making what she set out to do, which is what shortened her working time. She finally chose a Klopman woven polyester fabric, about which she says, "It was easy to sew on but it frayed. I did all french seams."

In addition to learning to make pin tucks and covered buttons, Lori searched diligently for just the right purchased lace collar. The collar she used came from New York City and she purchased it while on a trip with the Garden Spot Performing Arts Association. She said she walked 12 blocks to go to a recommended lace shop. In the end she didn't use the lace cuffs, because the match was not identical.

Lori said that she had a "little girl's sewing machine" when she was younger but that she really learned to sew in 4-H. "Last year I really started to sew and I really enjoy it. The main thing is that it costs less. When I go to a store I look at the garment and see if the seam is finished or if it is lined and I decide I'd rather make it." She said she feels good when someone compliments her on an outfit and she can reply that she made it.

Lori said she often gets ideas from attending fashion review. "I look at what other people have," she states, "I think what the judges will like. They look for the coloring and if it is the right age. They try to encourage you to do new things and it makes it more interesting to do something new." The pin tucks, which were new for her, did not take a lot of time. She marked them with chalk, ironed and stitched them. She did admit, "One time I got so frustrated I let out a scream." She laughs recalling the look her cat gave her before coming over and resting its paw on Lori's arm.

For next year she is already considering a skirt, jacket and blouse combination. You want to look for something that is in style but that's not too old," she states.

A sophomore at Garden Spot High School, Lori plays the piano and violin and is a member of the county and district orchestra as well as the Lancaster Youth Symphony. She is on the National Honor Society and helps the stage crew of the Garden Spot Performing Arts group.

Pin tucks are big this fall for anyone who knows the latest fashion and Beka Baum, 15, Columbia R1, chose tucks in a big way for her 4-H project. Her lovely quiana dress features 160 tucks at the waist and the neckline and Beka admits that they were time-consuming to construct. She spent 40 hours on tucks alone, tailor tacking them, pressing, basting, and sewing. When the tuck was stitched, she took out the basting and tailor tacks and if it was crooked, she started the process again. She said, "I never worked with tucks before. It was a challenge." I was looking for something different I hadn't done before."

She adds, "When I look back on this summer, the main thing I learned was patience. I didn't lose patience until the last week. When I started getting upset I stopped and made cookies. I had to do the collar three or four times. Now that it's over I can't believe I made the dress."

Beka's mother is a good seamstress and Beka turned to her for help when she needed it. But with her mother working at two jobs she often wasn't home at the critical point. Consequently, Beka says, "Mom talked over the phone with me. You really have to think to explain the problem over the phone. I learned a lot."

The result is stunning. Beka says, "I love silky things. The dress flows on you. It really is neat material because it moves." And despite the long hours she says, "I like the dress on me and I would like to make another."

This was Beka's first year in the senior division. A member of the Mountville 4-H Community Club, she was a winner in the junior division last year. About the contest, she says, "I couldn't believe it. I was really excited. All I hoped was to get before the professional judges. I was more excited when I won at regional."

Beka learned a lot about sewing in 4-H, but says, "My mom always sewed and I sewed around the house." She also took home economics in school.

She has nothing but praise for 4-H. "There are a lot of new opportunities to get to know people. 4-H is really neat. There are also responsibilities and pressures and heartaches. But you get new skills and you get better and better and better."

Beka likes to sew, saying, "The money that you save is important and it's something I can do. That's my talent and I'm proud of that. I plan to continue sewing in 4-H until I'm 19. Although she plans to go into education, she states, "Sewing is going to be handy to make clothes for college and make gifts. Why pay $25 for something when you can make it for $7?"

The dress that won for Beka was also not her first choice for a project. Like Jennie, she wanted to make a velvet blazer and wool skirt but couldn't find wool. "I did a lot of searching and I wasn't very confident about it. I just wasn't thrilled about doing this dress. It was just another dress." She said she didn't get enthusiastic about it until a teen leader in her club mentioned that she had a good chance of winning at the county contest. She added, "I saw a lot of pattern books and the really dressy look is good. Now I'm glad I picked a dress." She's already looking at Fall fashions for ideas for next year. "Each year you want to find something harder," she says.

Beka also took cake decorating with the Mount Joy 4-H Club and she has her own strawflower business taken over from her mother. "It takes about two to three hours a day to pick the flowers and put stems on them," she says, although sewing often took precedence this summer. She wants to learn to make dried flower arrangements and sell them. She works for a standholder at Roots and often substitutes at other markets.

In August, Beka will represent Mountville as their 4-H Senior Queen in the county contest.

A member of the Congregational Bible Church at Marietta, Beka plays church softball and is active in their youth group, enjoying backpacking and rappelling. She plays basketball at Hempfield, where she'll be a sophomore. She does a lot of work at home and in addition to sewing her

Joyce Bupp

Ah, August!

August is Summer grown heavy and sluggish with the pregnancy of promise as the countryside swells into an abundance of ripening.

Peaches, crimson blush streaked across golden yellow, weight branches with their juicy burdens. Apples of pale chartreuse and hints of russet play hide-n-seek with the breeze as it riffles tired leaves drooping in the heat.

Rows of early corn stretch arm-in-arm in seemingly endless formations, dipping around the contours and skipping over the hill. Almost overnight, braided tassels have shot from the top of each stalk. Dancing in the evening air, they shed their bits of life-giving fertile pollen onto the silk peeking from the ears below, so that the kernel at the base of each slender thread might grow fat and milky.

Wheat and oats fields lie in faded and bleached stubble, napping through a stretch of unemployment and bedded beneath a mid-summer blanket of manure. Soybeans and late corn in the barley fields stretch skyward, as if hurrying to mature before they lose their chance.

Focal point of August is the sun, intense and brilliant, beating down on the countryside. Little tar bubbles dot the back roads and pop as a tractor and wagonload of stacked bales pass by. Waves of heat shimmer with ghostly movement above metal barn roofs, abundant solar energy with nowhere better to go. Like an unseen enemy, humidity creeps close and the air hangs muggy and stifling.

And overhead the sky is an ever-changing kaleidoscope, deep blue taking turns with cloud playmates. Sometimes they're mere icy wisps, eons away, like white cobwebbing fastened to the ceiling of the Heavens.

Other times, parades of fluffy cumulus lumber along on their way southeast, throwing a silent steady moving shadow that darkens the hues of the lush summertime landscape.

Soon August's moodiness gets the best of her, and she explodes in steely-grey clouds of anger that thunder over the hillside, belching rumblings and spitting white fire until the heated anger has been appeased and comforted in a cold shower.

Then just as quickly as it came, the moodiness leaves, and August regains her composure with a dimple of blue in her clouded countenance and a rainbow in her eye.

So bear with August and her heated and moody ways, because eventually she will be delivered into yet another time. I saw a hint of it last week — the first wooly caterpillar of the season. Coal black.

And you know what that means.

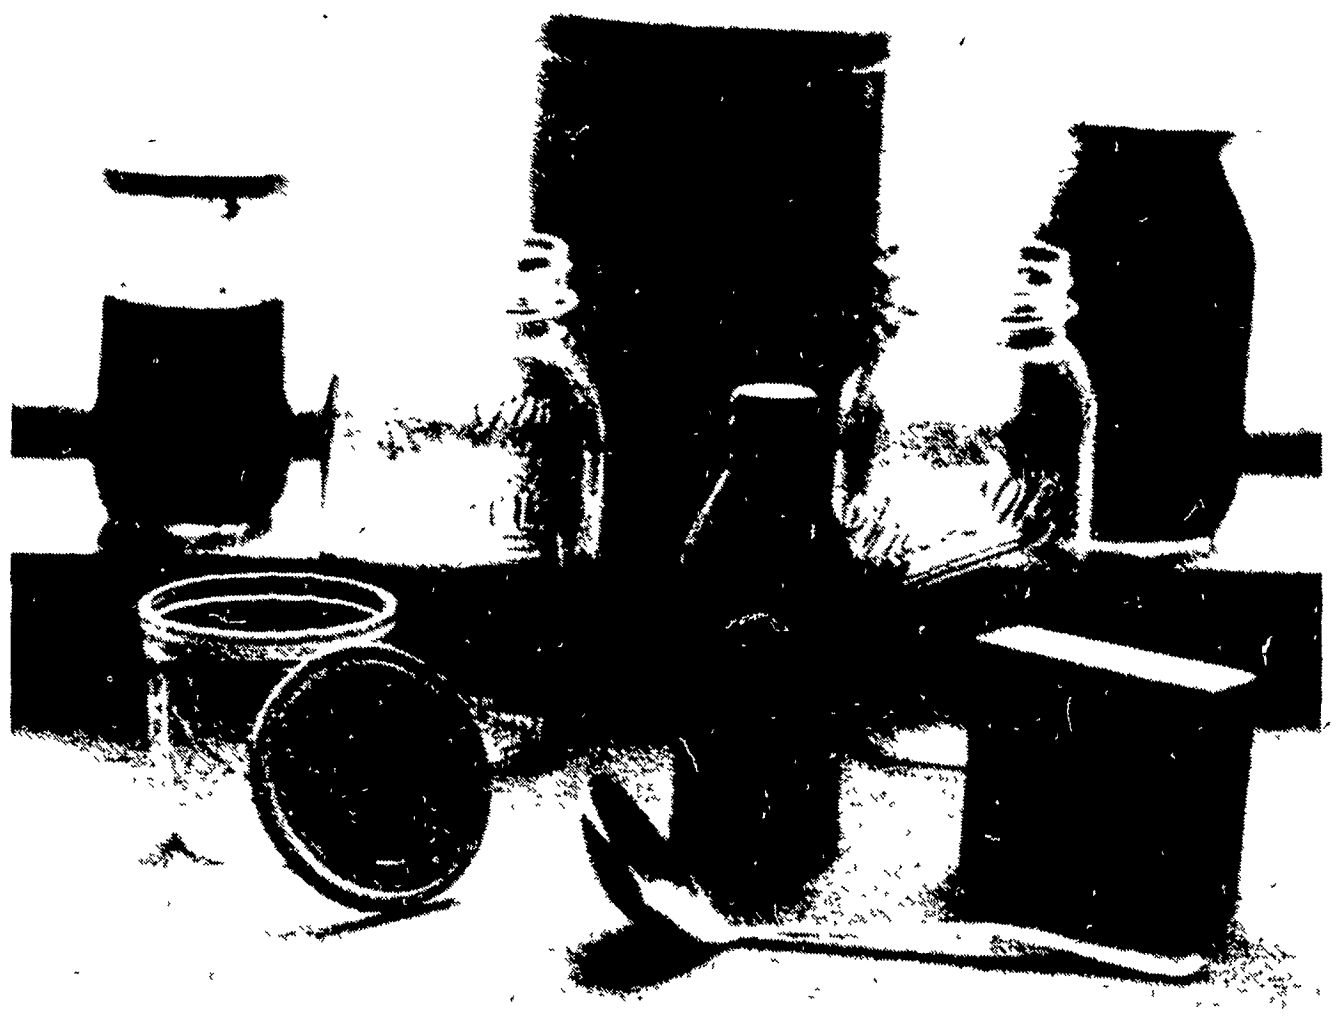
Sweeten your day with our jelly recipes

Writing an introduction to a jelly recipe column is sticky business, it's easy to get into a jam.. Today's recipes include taste treats like Sunset Jam, Red Beet Jelly, Crushed Pineapple, Apricot Honey Jam, Fresh Mint Jelly and others. In addition to the preserve recipes, we also have recipes from a recent reader request for a wet bottom shoofly pie recipe. So don't let life crush you to a pulp, enjoy our recipes and have a jelly side up day!



Summer days are hectic, but a few hours extra work putting up the fruits of the long summer days into sparkling jars will bring ample rewards on cool winter mornings when the coffee's hot and the toast is waiting.

SUNSET JAM

3 cups crushed pears
1 cup crushed pineapple
¾ cup maraschino cherries juice of 1 lemon or ¼ cup real lemon juice
1 cup fruit pectin

Mix all the ingredients except the pectin in a pan and bring to a good boil. Add the pectin. Cook the mixture until it coats the tines of a fork. Remove from heat and cool or pack in jars.

Vera Scott, Corland, New York

RED BEET JELLY

3 cups beet juice
4 cups sugar
1 packet powdered fruit pectin
6 ounces red raspberry flavored gelatin

Bring the juice to a rolling boil and add the gelatin and and fruit pectin. Boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and add the sugar. Stir well, then pour the mixture into jars.

Mrs. L. Martin, Morgantown

STRAWBERRY JELLY

3 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 cup crushed strawberries
alum

Boil the sugar and water for 15 minutes. Add the crushed strawberries and boil for 10 minutes longer. Add a little alum. Pour the jelly into containers and freeze.

FRESH MINT JELLY

1¾ cups mint infusion (1½ cups fresh mint)
2 tablespoons strained lemon juice
green food coloring
½ bottle fruit pectin

Prepare the mint infusion by washing 1½ cups firmly packed mint leaves and stems. Place the mint in a large saucepan and crush with a masher or glass. Add 2¼ cups water and bring quickly to a boil. Remove from heat, cover and let stand 10 minutes. Strain. Measure 1¾ cups into a saucepan. Add the lemon juice and a few drops of green food coloring. Add sugar and fruit pectin and bring to a boil for 1 minute. Remove the mixture from the heat and skim off the foam with a metal spoon. Pour the mixture quickly into glasses and cover with 1/8 inch of hot paraffin.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

PEACH SUNSHINE PRESERVES

1 small jar maraschino cherries
1 cup orange pulp
15 cups sugar
2 bottles fruit pectin

Grind cherries and orange. Mash peaches. Combine and cook for 2 minutes at a rolling boil. Add 2 bottles fruit pectin. Remove from heat and stir for 5 minutes. Seal in jars

Alma Sanders, Westminster, Maryland

NO COOK PEACH JAM

1 teaspoon ascorbic acid crystals, optional
6½ cups sugar
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 bottle fruit pectin

Prepare the fruit, peeling, pitting and grinding about 2¾ pounds fully ripe peaches. Measure 2¾ cups. Add the ascorbic acid crystals. Add the sugar, mix and let stand for 10 minutes Mix water or lemon juice and fruit pectin well in a small bowl Stir into fruit and juice. Continue stirring for 3 minutes. A few sugar crystals may remain. Pour quickly into prepared containers. Cover at once with a tight lid Allow to set at room temperature (up to 24 hours), then store in the freezer. For use within 3 weeks, the jam may be stored in the refrigerator.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Mertztown

APRICOT HONEY JAM

3 cups prepared fruit
2 cups honey
2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit, finely chop 6 pounds of dried apricots and place in a saucepan. Add 2 cups water and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 3 minutes. Measure fruit and liquid and add water if necessary to make 3 cups. Pour into a large saucepan. Make the jam by measuring honey and sugar and setting aside. Mix the fruit pectin into fruit in a saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until the mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add all honey and sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and skim for 7 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/8 inch hot paraffin. Makes 6 cups or 8 6-ounce glasses.

B. Russell, Pine Bush, New York

PUMPKIN BUTTER

3½ cups cooked pumpkin
4½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
1 box powdered fruit pectin

Measure the pumpkin into a large saucepan. Add the spice and pectin and mix well. Place the mixture over high heat and stir until the mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add the sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute. Stir constantly. Remove from heat and ladle into glasses. Seal with paraffin.

B. Russell, Pine Bush, New York

APPLE BUTTER

7 cups sugar
2 tablespoons powdered fruit pectin
2 packages strawberry Koolaid
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves

Cook the ingredients together for 20 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and seal in jars.

Alma Saunders, Westminster, Maryland

GOOEY SHOOFLY PIE

1 cup molasses
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon soda
Crumbs:
1 cup flour
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter

Beat the egg and add molasses. Dissolve soda in the hot water. Add it to the molasses and egg mixture. Mix the crumb mixture well with your hands and save ½ cup crumbs to sprinkle on the top. Put the rest into the gooey mixture in an unbaked pie shell and sprinkle crumbs on the top. Bake at 400° F. for 15 minutes then reduce heat and complete baking at 325° F. for approximately 35 minutes. Makes 1 large pie.

Donna Zimmerman, East Earl

SHOO FLY PIE

Crumbs:
¼ cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1½ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Liquid:
1 egg
¾ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup molasses
¾ cup boiling water

In a medium sized bowl, beat the egg, then add the molasses. Add boiling water to the soda, then add to the molasses mixture and mix well. Put liquid into bottom of the crust. Mix the ingredients for the crumbs and sprinkle over the liquid. This is a gooey bottomed pie. Bake 15 minutes in 400° F. oven, then 350° F. for 35 minutes. Makes 1 9-10 inch pie.

Ruth Seasholtz, Obelisk

WET BOTTOM SHOO FLY PIE

1 cup flour
⅔ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup dark molasses
¾ cup boiling water
1 teaspoon soda
1 beaten egg

Mix the flour, sugar and butter and set aside half of the mixture. Combine the remaining ingredients and mix the liquid with ½ of the crumb mixture. Pour into an unbaked pie shell and cover with the remaining crumbs. Bake for 11 minutes at 375° F. and for 30 minutes additional time at 350° F.

Mary L. Swartzentruber, Dover, Delaware

SHOO FLY PIE

1 cup molasses
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup hot water
Topping:
3 cups flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup lard

Mix the liquid part of the pie and pour into an unbaked pie shell. Mix the topping and pour on top of the gooey mixture. Bake in 400° F. oven for 10 minutes and turn the oven back to 350° F. for 30 minutes. Makes 4 pies.

Mrs. Roy Hetrick, Palmyra

WET BOTTOM SHOO FLY PIE

Crumbs:
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup margarine
Liquid:
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups molasses
1¼ cups hot water
1½ teaspoons baking soda

Mix the liquid part and pour into the bottom of unbaked pie shells. Mix the crumbs and pour on top of the liquid. Bake the pies in 400° F. oven for 15 minutes and reduce the heat to 325° F. for another 25 minutes. Makes 3 8-inch or 2 9-inch pies.

Mrs. A. Martin, Womelsdorf

WASHINGTON, D.C. — An official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Tuesday said oats in the new farmer-owned reserve are being called.

Donald Gillis, acting administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said oats are being called because prices at Chicago and Minneapolis—as adjusted to reflect farm-level prices—have been at or above the $1.57 call level for five consecutive days.

Old grain reserve agreements for oats were called May 23.

Gillis said calling loans on oats in the reserve means farmers have 90 days from the date of notification of the call to repay their Commodity Credit Corporation reserve loans.

Under the grain reserve program, farmers own the commodities and are not required to sell their grain. If they do not repay the loan, however, they must forfeit the grain to the CCC. About 19.1 million bushels of oats are in the new grain reserve program.

County officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will officially notify producers their grain has been called and the date by which the loan must be redeemed.

Under the farmer-owned grain reserve program, established by Congress in the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 and designed to stabilize marketing, farmers are eligible to place wheat and feed grains into a reserve during periods of low prices. In return, farmers receive CCC price support loans on the grain in reserve as well as annual storage payments. If prices rise to the "release" level, farmers can repay the loan and market the crop without incurring a penalty.

The call level for feed grains under the new reserve program is 145 percent of the national average loan rate. The 1979 loan level for oats is $1.08 per bushel. Data used by CCC in determining the call level includes a daily report by the Agricultural Marketing Service which shows prices at selected markets. The markets reviewed by CCC for oats are Chicago and Minneapolis.

LIQUID
SILAGE FORTIFIER

A revolutionary new concept in improving silages. University tested and proven MOPRO Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to balance the major mineral and protein deficiencies of silages. It also prevents loss from mold and rot after being removed from the silo or trench. MOPRO is added at the time of ensiling and is applied by metering equipment with very little handling cost. MOPRO will not corrode mild steel tanks or brass fittings and has no free ammonia odor to irritate the eyes or skin. MOPRO is a homogeneous solution of ammonia salts, urea, cane molasses, and minerals (except salt and calcium) in an efficient liquid carrier. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phosphorous, magnesium, and trace elements. MOPRO 100 will give a resulting silage of up to 14.3% protein.

Farm life brought to Capital City Mall

CAMP HILL — Thanks to a number of farmers and farm organizations in Cumberland County, a little bit of farm life went to the Capital City Mall, Camp Hill, July 17-19.

The farm animals seemed to delight both young and old. A special attraction was a litter of 10-day old pigs and sow provided by Strockland Farms.

Another attraction was the "Barnyard Friends" Exhibit including six baby rabbits exhibited by Michael Dyarman, RD1, Shippensburg; three little pigs displayed by Strockland Farms, 735 Williams Grove Rd., Mechanicsburg; ewe and lamb provided by Ray and Robert Holtry, RD6, Carlisle; Holstein calf exhibited by Berkheimer Farms, RD2, Mechanicsburg.

Hatching baby chicks provided a unique treat for the thousands who visited the Mall last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A pen of sheep provided by Ray and Robert Holtry, R6, Carlisle, was the special attraction on Thursday. A registered Holstein exhibited by Huntsdale Stock Farm, R5, Carlisle, was featured Friday and the sow and litter Saturday night.

Thanks to Mindy Brandt, R5, Carlisle, a sheep shearing demonstration was presented Saturday afternoon.

Many of the Pa. Dept. of Agriculture's Agri-people made their debut including P.A. Spud; To-To Tomato; Munckin Mushroom and Corny Cornelius. Each of these agri-people represented the Pa. Vegetable Industry.

Dairy Princess, Sharon Cornman, R6, Carlisle, Ann Basehore, Alternate Dairy Princess, Creek Road, Mechanicsburg, and other representatives of the Dairy Industry distributed dairy products and educational leaflets while manning the Educational Dairy Exhibits.

One of the highlights of the three day event was the farm tractors and equipment provided by the Carlisle Implement dealers

Paul Shover's Inc., 35 East Willow St., Carlisle, displayed a #995 Four Wheel Drive Tractor and a Century Sprayer.

Ernest Shover, 19 W. South Street, Carlisle, exhibited a #270 White Tractor and a set of 348 S.A.R. plows.

Peterman Farm Equipment, Inc., 225 York Road,

(Turn to Page C12)

Sheep shearing demonstrations were presented by Mindy Brandt, R5, Carlisle.

Can I touch it? — she seems to ask as she gingerly reaches out.

Carlisle, provided a #255 Massey Ferguson Tractor and a #160 Massey Ferguson Spreader.

C & W Equipment Inc., 260 York Road, Carlisle, Pa. displayed an International Harvester-Farmall Hydro #86 Tractor with a #56 Silage Blower.

H. R Gutshall & Sons, Inc., Farm Equipment, Spring Road, Carlisle, Pa., displayed a 2940 John Deere 4-Wheel Drive Tractor and a set of John Deere plows.

Total value of equipment displayed was well over $100,000. Farm organizations that supported the project either by developing exhibits or providing man-power to construct, man or clean-up included — the Cumberland County Farmers Association, the Cumberland County Dairy Princess committee, the Cumberland Cooperative Sheep and Wool Growers, the South Central Penn Pork Producers Association and the Cumberland County Farm-City Committee.

Much of the success of this event was credited to the hard work and efforts of Rodger Hoke, President of Cumberland County Farmers Association, Robert Berkheimer, President of Cumberland County Agriculture Extension Association, John Hauck, Co-Chairman of the County Farm-City Committee, Clyde Strock representing the Pork Producers, representatives of The Penna. Dept. of Agriculture, and Cumberland County Extension Office Staff.

Junior Cooking Edition

If there was a contest to choose the favorite food of junior cooks, cookies would be among the five finalists. Cookies are quick to prepare, and handy for youngsters who are always on the go to grab on the way out the door. And if young cooks occasionally run the sweeper and pick up the crumbs they leave behind, mothers don't really mind the munching. So today we've filled the column with a batch of cookie recipes!

CHURCH WINDOW COOKIES

12 ounces chocolate chips
10 ounces miniature marshmallows
¾ cup finely chopped nuts
coconut

Melt the margarine and chocolate chips in a double boiler Set aside to cool. Add miniature marshmallows and chopped nuts Sprinkle coconut on a sheet of waxed paper Pour mixture on this and form 2 rolls Roll in coconut. Refrigerate overnight to harden. Then slice.

Levi B. King, Age 10, Lancaster

UNBAKED COOKIES (EASY WAY)

8 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons coconut
3 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1 cup water

Mix oatmeal, cocoa and coconut. Boil the sugar, milk and water. Mix the oatmeal and sugar mixtures together and drop on waxed paper.

Janice Burkholder, Age 13, Fredricksburg

MASTER MIX COOKIES

9 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups shortening
7½ cups oatmeal
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons soda
6 cups brown sugar

Sift flour, salt, baking powder, and soda into a large bowl. Add sugar and cut in shortening until the mixture is crumbly. Stir in the oatmeal.

2 eggs, beaten
2 teaspoons vanilla
nuts, raisins or chips

Mix all together and bake at 375° F For a moister cookie, add more milk.

wardrobe for school, she does crafts and likes to bake bread.

Stephanie Schaich, 1401 Rothsville Road, Lititz, was the only winner in the junior division from Lancaster. Her project was a plaid Pendleton wool skirt with a front kick pleat, but she made an ivory blouse with eight pin tucks on each side as an accessory. She also made a Bermuda bag to match the skirt.

A member of the Lititz-Rothsville Zig-Zaggers for five years, Stephanie, 14, said she didn't expect to win at the regional contest at all. "I was really excited when I won. I expected to get to the professional judges because I really worked, but I didn't expect to go to regionals."

She says the hardest part of the project was matching the plaids on the wool skirt. To get them even, she says, "I pinned and did two rows of basting and then sewed between the basting." To make it perfect, however, she did end up cutting out a second back panel, which was a frustration, because a hand picked zipper was already in place.

Stephanie admits, "I try to make something to catch the judge's eye. The reason I made this pattern is that I made one skirt before and I liked the way it fit."

In addition to matching plaids, Stephanie says, "I also learned to do a tailor's hem." When she had trouble finding wool for her skirt, her mother called on a friend who lives in Oregon, the home of Pendleton, and Stephanie got her wool for $5 a yard, making the project very economical.

When sewing, Stephanie says, "Most of the time I ask my mother and she helps me, but I also call one of the leaders if I have a question. I have to get it perfect. I don't know why."

She worked steadily this summer, but admitted that it was a problem completing the skirt. One drawback came when she was ready to sew the purse and the electricity went off in one of the major storms. "I went to a friend's," Stephanie recalled.

Sewing is an advantage Stephanie says, because it's cheaper. "You can put the kind of fabric and the kind of pattern you want together and make something really neat. I look a long time and look at pattern books and think of last year's fashion review."

A 4-H enthusiast, Stephanie states, "I like 4-H because I want to achieve something. Some friends don't achieve much in the summer but I like 4-H because I have something to do When I finish a project I feel so proud."

Stephanie was on the committee for county fashion review and was thrilled to wear some of the old fashions from the Fulton Opera House collection. She says, "Some are really funny looking. The waistlines were long and they seemed really narrow."

A teen leader this year, Stephanie worked with one younger girl and helped her learn the pledge and checked her project. She is news reporter for her club and has also served as secretary, president and song and game leader.

Her goal she says, is to get to state fashion review While she's anxious to wear her skirt, she adds, "I don't want to sew again for a long, long time."

A sophomore at Lancaster Catholic High School in September, Stephanie plays the piano and enjoys tennis and swimming.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 4

Mrs Geraldine Chaplin, 1217 Crestwood Drive, Pottstown, was the hostess for the Berks County Society of Farm Women, Group 4, at their regular monthly meeting, held on July 1, 1980.

There were eight members present and six guests

An invitation was received from Group No 9 for a 10th Anniversary party on September 17, 1980, at the St Paul's Lutheran Church in Douglassville

Rev James Giannantonio, Pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Pottstown, showed slides of his travels to Egypt, concentrating on Cairo and the Pyramids

The next meeting, on August 5, 1980, will be a picnic and safety program to be held at Taylor's Pavilion in Colebrookedale, covered dish style.

Berks Co. Society 9

Mrs Jeanne Casner, Amityville, was the hostess for Group 9, Berks County Farm Women, with ten members present

Entertainment, food, centerpieces, favors and gifts were discussed in preparation for the Group's tenth anniversary celebration

The next meeting, on August 6, will be in the home of Mrs Winnie Hayik, at 8 00

On July 27th the annual Family Picnic will be held at the Daniel Boone Homestead; each member of the group volunteered to bring a dish to share with others

Roger Lehmann, using one of the member's cars to demonstrate, showed various engine parts, their location and how to tell if repairs are needed. Basic car maintenance and care a car owner should follow were also explained. A question and answer period followed. Reported by Winnie Hayik, Sec.

Ladies Have You Heard?

CONVECTION OVENS GOOD FOOD DRYING APPLIANCE

If you are thinking about investing in a food dehydrator to dry this year's bounty from the garden consider your options.

Food dehydrators are expensive, single use appliances. For very little more money, you can purchase a countertop convection oven with drying racks and have a multi-use piece of equipment. Convection ovens differ from conventional ovens in that they have a fan in the cooking cavity that provides forced circulation of air as it is being heated Just as the "wind chill factor" means that the air seems colder than it really is, the circulating air in the convection oven seems warmer.

As a result foods cook more evenly and faster — at lower temperatures. A study is being conducted at Penn State of the energy costs of cooking appliances and it has shown that drying foods in convection ovens is also faster and more even A full load of apple slices will dry in about three hours, compared with eight to 24 hours in a conventional dryer.

The study is not yet complete but it has shown that convection ovens in these tests have used about half the energy of a conventional oven. This can be a real energy saver over time.

BE A WISE HEALTH CONSUMER

Don't let yourself get taken by consumer fraud and quackery. Studies have shown that the elderly in the United States are clearly the major victims of the modern medicine man's organized high pressure techniques.

The three major types of medical quackery that the elderly are susceptible to are nutritional quackery, drug quackery, and "miracle" cures for the chronic diseases.

Nutritional quackery — The vast majority of commercially sold vitamins and minerals contain elements not needed in human nutrition or not needed if a balanced diet is eaten.

Laxatives are another questionable product. Many times advertisements are geared toward the elderly Laxatives should be used in minimal doses and not be self-prescribed. You should be careful not to use them excessively, because they may cause the digestive system to become "lazy" and dependent on the laxatives to stimulate eliminations.

Drug quackery — Beware of products claiming to restore your vitality, sexual potency, your hair, or removed wrinkles and aging spots.

The need for prescription medication may leave you vulnerable to the generic versus brand name controversy. Many times a brand name drug will cost ten or fifteen times more than a non-brand name equivalent.

Don't forget that despite giant advertising campaigns for major brand names, all aspirins are about the same You might as well purchase the cheapest brand of aspirin.

Cures for chronic disease — Beware of quacks who offer quick "miracle" cures for your illness. The danger is that you may delay proper treatment in the crucial early stages of a disease. People suffering from arthritis and cancer are often victims of these quacks

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I'm rather discouraged this morning when I consider the attendance we've had at our 4-H meetings. I've tried to analyze why the children don't come.

They've gotten a sheet listing all the meetings during the summer. There are a variety of activities to try and suit their interests. And, they had a hand in planning visits to greenhouses, veterinary clinics, and museums. One thing that causes absenteeism is their taking two and three week vacations with their families. Another is simply forgetting about the meetings as other things like baseball and swimming seem more important. Also, I feel that the parents must be interested in 4-H too.

We had a bit of bad luck in that the Wildlife group had their hike rained out and the Craft leader broke her ankle and had to cancel several meetings. The Sewing group felt very rushed in completing their projects. As they use the school facilities, they can only start after school is over for the year. A few more mothers helping would have made a big difference.

Even our Cooking club, which is usually quite popular, has suffered. Only a few show up and have various excuses for not coming. And when they come for a session we find that they are finicky eaters.

A whole meal is cooked and some do not eat chicken, some no fish and some no meatloaf. I almost feel that they are raised on hamburgers and frankfurters.

The other night a little girl was left at my door on a Thursday — we always meet on Monday. One little girl without any supper. She informed me the phone was off the hook at home so that I couldn't call her mother.

What to do! We cooked a meal of baked chicken, a carrot and cheese casserole and fruit dumplings. It really wasn't too bad but I didn't really need a second meal as our family had eaten earlier.

Our own children are the opposite of the lackadasical ones I've been talking about and always ran to so many meetings on the local, county and state level that we, their poor parents, found it difficult to manage without them. Surely somewhere in between there must be a happy medium.

The number of milk cows in the U.S. dropped every year during the past decade, and in 1979 was down 12.5 percent or 1.5 million from the 12.3 million cows in 1969. Milk production per cow increased dramatically over the past ten years, up a whopping 21.6 percent or an average of 2,040 pounds for each cow in the nation.

HEIFERS BULLS

While some companies look for ways to build bins cheaper, we find ways to build bins better. Bins that will last longer, look nicer and protect grain better.

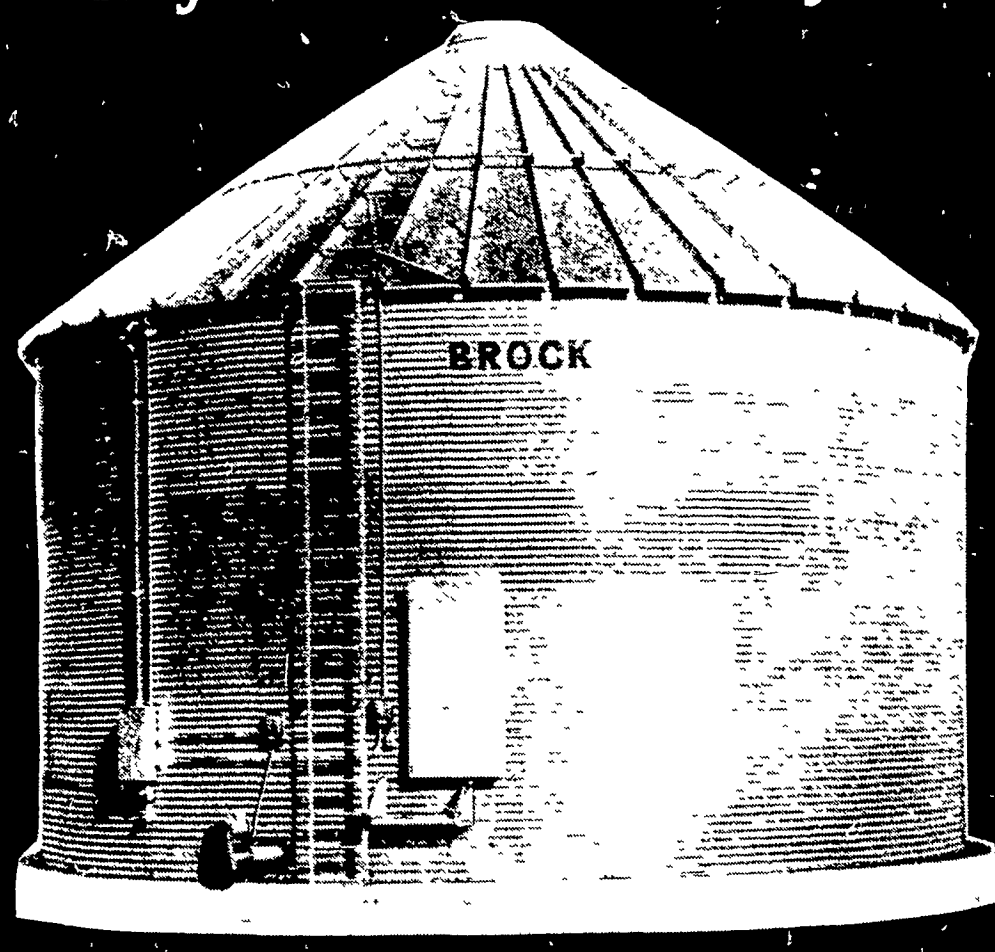
That's why we use only prime high-tensile steel. And precision form and punch each piece.

No, we won't cut corners. Because in the long run, cutting corners would just cost you more money.

For more information about all our money-saving design features just write for a copy of our latest catalog.

BROCK Hershey Equipment Company, Inc.

There are 10 ways we could cut our price.
Any one of them will cost you.



Reduce the 40-inch fill hole width to 24 inches.
Eliminate the exclusive fill hole collar seal.
Eliminate the circle of safety steps.
Eliminate the adjustable roof stiffner ring.
Eliminate 3-inch high roof ribs.
Make the roof pitch less than 35 degrees.
Eliminate the safety handrail by the manhole.
Eliminate the tab between each rafter.
Switch to a lighter gauge steel sidewall.
Use lower grade bin bolts and washers.

Here's 1980 Summer Sire Summary

LANCASTER — The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Dairy Herd Improvement Association have completed the Summer 1980 active AI sire summary listing.

Predicted Difference for dollars, the last and perhaps most important column, is based on a milk price of $11.50 for 3.5 percent butterfat test milk with a fat differential of 14.2 cents. This is the U.S. average price for last year, less average hauling charges.

Summaries were calculated on all bulls reported active by AI organizations as of July 23, 1980. Records in progress are included in all summaries.

Farmland price rise slows, sales activity seen dropping

LANCASTER — Activity in the farm real estate market is expected to decline this year, primarily due to the combined effects of high interest rates and tight credit during the first half of the year, along with the recession and the decline in net farm income.

During the survey year ending Feb. 1, 1981, the price of farmland is likely to increase between 5 and 10 percent—well below the 13-percent average rate of increase over the last 10 years. For the first quarter of 1980, the Federal Reserve Banks of Chicago and Kansas City reported a slow-to-negative growth in farmland values.

Farmland prices increased an average of 15 percent during the year ending February 1, 1980, slightly above the 14-percent general inflation rate (increase in the Consumer Price Index) for the same period.

The size of the average farm increased from 449 to 452 acres in the 48 continuous states, and the value of the average farm increased from $251,000 to $290,000. Just 5 years ago the average farm size was 426 acres and the value was only $114,000.

The average acre of farmland is now worth $641. The state averages reflect land quality and the intensity of use, ranging from $112 an acre in New Mexico to $2400 an acre in New Jersey.

The total value of farm real estate was $668 billion on February 1, up $84 billion from a year earlier. Building values accounted for $111 billion or 17 percent of the total value.

During the survey year ending Feb. 1, 1980, the average price of farmland increased most in Louisiana, up 29 percent, and Maryland, up 25 percent.

Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, and California also showed gains of 20 percent or more. Farmland prices increased by less than 10 percent in 13 other states. The slowest rates of increase were generally found in the Northeast and Appalachian regions

The total number of farms fell one percent during the survey year, compared with a 1.6-percent decrease during the previous year. Farm enlargement continued to account for 63 percent of all farmland purchases.

The number of farm transfers was unchanged from the previous year's level at 85,600, while the rate of farm transfers increased slightly to 40 tracts per 1000 farms. The tight credit situation in some areas of the country in the first half of the year and the decrease in net farm income are expected to reduce the rate of farm transfers in 1980.

A record-high 91 percent of all farm transfers during the survey year were credit financed. Sellers and Federal land banks dropped their market share by providing only seven percent of the credit, compared with 10 percent last year and 15 percent the year before.

Transfers of farmland expected to remain in agricultural use five years after the date of purchase remained around levels of recent years, accounting for 82 percent of all purchases, 89 percent of the total acres, and 88 percent of the total value transferred.

Expected use as a rural residence continued to be the most common form of competition, accounting for eight percent of the purchases. For most uses, the average price per acre for tracts under 100 acres was at least twice as high as the overall average price.

Cash rents generally continued upward, but in most of the states surveyed, the rate of increase failed to match the rate of inflation. In most states the ratio of gross cash rents to land prices continued to drop.

Youth wins Guernsey calf at York-Adams picnic

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

HELLAM — Nearly 150 airy cattle enthusiasts athered last Thursday at ioneycrest Farms, York 11, or the annual picnic of the ork-Adams Guernsey reeders association.

Highlight of the evening as the presentation of a egistered Guernsey calf to ight-year-old Larry Amspacher, whose face split nto an ear-to-ear grin when is name was drawn for the nusual prize. Picnic hosts Cathy and Ellsworth Lehman donated the calf, which ill be used as a 4-H project y the youthful winner.

The son of Larry and eorgia Amspacher, York 7, Larry is a third-grader t North Hills Elementary chool and in his first year of -H club participation.

He's a member of the hite Rose Dairy Club and reviously owned both a egistered Guernsey and a olstein calf which he'll how for the first time at the ugust 14 county dairy oundup at the York airgrounds.

Activities for the evening vent also included a hicken bar-b-que dinner, umerous doorprize iveaways, and the opportunity for members and uests to view the oneycrest herd.

The Lehmans neat stall arn along Route 30 east ouses 86 registered uernsey milking animals ith a rolling herd average of 13,000 pounds of milk and 700 of fat. Two practice classes of judging were held, with association secretary Lee Yost placing the cow and heifer categories.

Larry Amspacher's grin attests to how he feels about the Guernsey calf he won, donated by picnic host Ellsworth Lehman, Jr.

Lebanon Fair opens with barbecue Sunday

LEBANON — This is the final week for hustle-bustle preparations for the Lebanon Area Fair's manager Maxine Noll. On Sunday, August 3 the annual agriculture event will once again put out its welcome mat for spectators and exhibitors alike.

According to Noll, there will be around 700 exhibitors competing in the 4-H, FFA, and open livestock and dairy shows.

About 60 commercial exhibitors will be on hand to show and tell area farmers and specatators the latest in seed stock and farm equipment.

Just for fun, there will be a hand milking contest and a calf dressing contest for the third consecutive year.

And, not for folks with weak stomachs — there will be a tobacco spitting contest, too. This will be the first year for this contest, said Noll

For those who still have an appetite after the 'juice' spitting contest, there will be loads of home cooked food. Actually, the meals will be available Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. A ham barbeque will be held on Sunday, and a chicken barbeque on Thursday.

Parking and admission to the fair is free on Sunday, Thursday, and Saturday. The remainder of the week it will cost $1 per car to park and $1 admission for those folks over 12 years old. Senior citizens are admitted free of charge with identification cards.

So set some time aside between August 4 and August 9 to travel the short distance to the Lebanon Fair Grounds, located 2 miles south of the Lebanon Plaza, at Cornwall and Evergreen Roads.

Sue Heilinger exhibited the grand champion Guernsey.

Will Patti and Dale Maulfair's Ayrshires continue their winning streak and sweep their Thursday show?

What Makes SAME Tractors Better?
The SAME Air-Cooled Diesel Engine!

2 3 4 5 or 6 cylinder inline diesels provide 35 to 140 h p for the 21 models of SAME 4 WD and 2 WD tractors

These fuel efficient engines have double (air and oil) cooling systems and have direct fuel injection from camshaft operated pumps for easier starts reliable performance and lower fuel consumption (up to 40%)

Being air-cooled, there is no radiator hoses, thermostats, water filters no water pump, no anti freeze no boiling, no freezing so about 40% of the down time problems connected with liquid cooled engines are eliminated You benefit by lower original cost, lower operating and maintenance costs, faster warm up to most efficient operating temperature, and longer engine life to name a few

Cylinders and heads are individually replaceable and all vertical parts are interchangeable This means faster easier servicing and maintenance as well as fewer parts to stock

Of course, the engine is only part of the story see your SAME dealer to check out, test drive and learn about all the special features that SAME offers including a limited 2 yr /3000 hrs warranty and a surprisingly low price tag

LEESPORT — Ten 4-H'ers from Berks County were selected last Friday to compete in the Southeast Regional Fashion Revue. Competing with their colleagues in the county competition held at the Berks County Agricultural Center, these fortunate 4-H'ers earned the opportunity to compete regionally at Plymouth Meeting Mall.

Selected for the regional competition were: Senior Division - Lisa Breininger, Robesonia; Eileen Fisher, Robesonia; Sally Hensel, Shoemakersville; Janis Heffner, Fleetwood; Karen Rausch, Hamburg; and Jeanette Sechler, Shoemakersville.

Alternates are. Diane Wentzel, Hamburg; Erica Adams, Shoemakersville; and Jamie Batz, Richland

Junior Division winners were: Steven Kauffman, Shartlesville; Christine Sechler, Shoemakersville; and Lori Derespina, Shoemakersville. Junior alternates are. Amy Leibensperger, also of Shoemakersville; Jenny Schrawder, Kempton; and Stephanie Kauffman, Shartlesville.

These 4-H'ers started their costumes at the beginning of the 4-H year and in addition to developing sewing skills, they also had the opportunity to develop grace and poise.

They have practiced good grooming habits, and gained skill in decision making as they helped to prepare for the county dress revue

Winners of the Regional competition will be able to attend 4-H Achievement Days this August as they compete in the State Competition with other regional winners. The State winner will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress, being held this year in Chicago, Illinois, November 3 to December 4.

Troy Fair celebrates 105th year

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

TROY — Dairymen from Canton took home the grands in both Holstein and Guernsey competition at this year's Troy Fair.

The annual fair in Bradford County opened its 105th year on July 21, with a tour by state officials, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, E. Chester Heim, Senators Henry Hager and Frank O'Connell, and Representative Roger Madigan

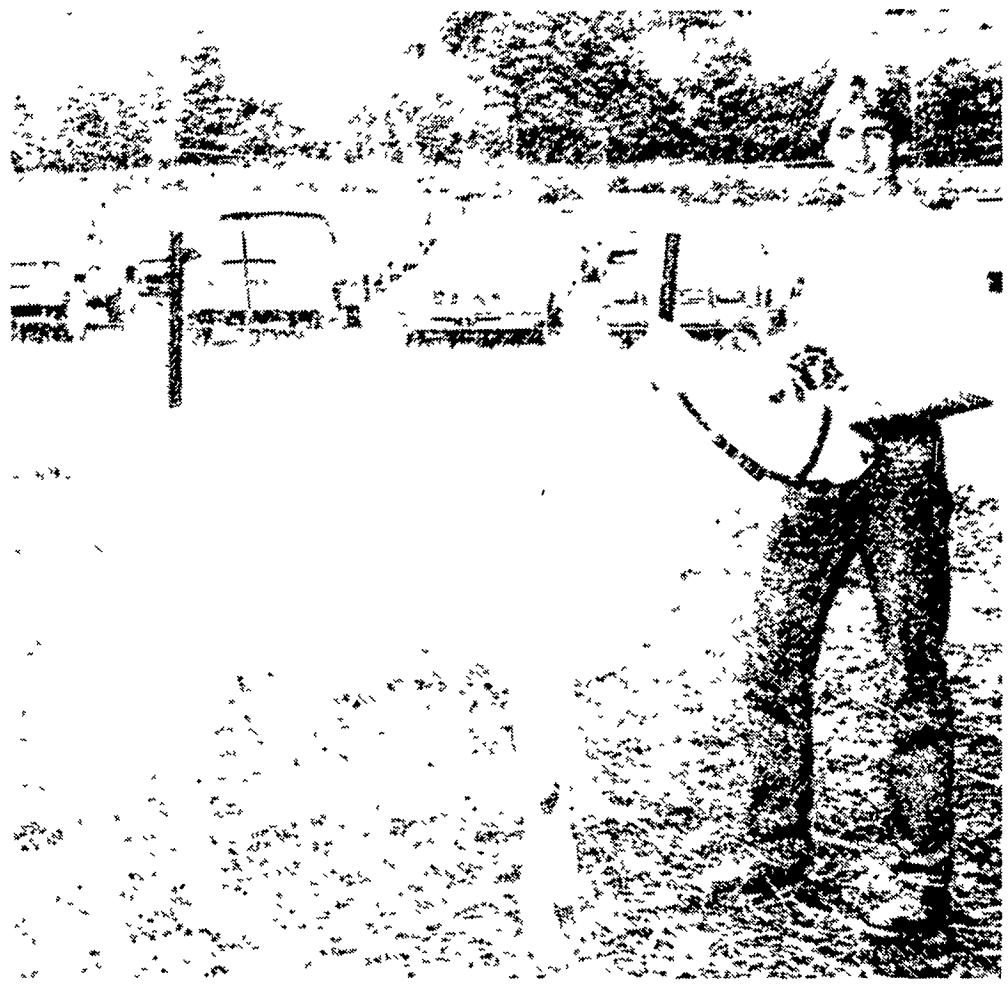
The officials were joined by Neal Mack, Troy Fair chairman and secretary-treasurer of the State Association of County Fairs, and Ben F. Mader, chief of the Fair Fund of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Mel Peifer and Landis Brothers, of Canton, exhibited the Grand Champion Holstein at this year's dairy show. While Wright Brothers, also of Canton, took the Grand Champion honors in the Guernsey show.

One of the highlights of the Fair was the Ninth Annual Sheep and Wool Day held on Wednesday. For the eighth year, Dr. T J. McLaughlin, a dentist from Indiana, put his three dogs, Drift, Glenn, and Hem, through their remarkable paces as they herded a small flock of sheep from one end of the field to another and eventually up a ramp into McLaughlin's truck.

Other sheep contests and related crafts included: fleece judging, by Robert Kimball from Penn State; sheep shearing, demonstrated by Tom Horton, Lady's Ewe Leading Event, by Howard Smith, Jr

Vicky Ralph, North Orwell showed the art of spinning wool from an Angora rabbit while holding the rabbit in her lap. Bill, her husband, was on hand with his craft of making and repairing spinning wheels.



The Reserve Junior Champion Guernsey was shown by Dean Jackson of Columbia Cross Roads. Sired by Deacon, she is out of a Dairy Most Dam.

Craftsmen demonstrating their skills filled an entire tent, and spilled over into another. Tole painting, basket making, corn husk dolls, making old-fashioned band boxes, repairing Oriental rugs, wooden toys, leather craft, dried flower pictures, colonial-type dolls, and many other crafts drew much attention from the large crowd of spectators.

Appearing for the first time at the Troy Fair was Bruce Henry, Montgomery. Henry makes and plays the dulcimer, a stringed instrument indigenous to the eastern Appalachian area Five years ago, he recalled, he attended an arts and crafts show, heard the dulcimer played, and was so intrigued, he had to try it himself. Since then he has made and sold over 50. Henry teaches mechanical drafting at the Sun Area Vocational Technical School in New Berlin so making his own designs is easy The trailing heart design seen on the front all of his instruments is his trademark.

According to Henry, he and his wife, who is a professional music teacher, sing together, accompanying themselves on the dulcimer. They often give programs for public groups featuring songs of the Scotch-Irish people who populated the Appalachian area.

On Thursday of Troy Fair Week, quilts and miniatures were featured. Over 75 quilts were displayed in the craft tent under the direction of co-chairwomen, Anne McClintic, and Holly Keegan, both of whom took their turns demonstrating some aspect in quilt making.

Some of the quilts on display were entered in a First Quilt Contest sponsored by the Log Cabin

Retirement lunch set for Berks County Agent

HAMBURG — The Berks County Extension Association is sponsoring a retirement luncheon for James Haldeman, county agent.

The luncheon will be held August 17 at the Hamburg Field House, Hamburg, and will begin with a buffet lunch at 12:30 followed by a program in Jim's honor.

Ernest Heckman, president of the County Extension Association urges all to join the committee in this endeavor to honor Jim for the 27 years of service he has given to Berks County. Heckman noted that tickets for the luncheon, which also include a donation for a gift, are $8 for adults and $4 for children (6 to 12).

Deadline for reservations is August 10th, and checks should be made payable to: HALDEMAN FUND, Hamilton Bank, 26 S. 4th St., Hamburg, Pa. 19526.

Heckman also noted that those unable to attend but would like to contribute to the gift may still do so by sending the donation to the above address, making a note that it is a gift.

The committee is also compiling a book comprised of letters of best wishes and/or congratulations to Jim which will be presented at the luncheon. Anyone wishing to write a letter for the book is welcome to do so. The letter should be written on one side of a standard 8½x11 inches paper and be mailed by the deadline to the above address

Tickets can be picked up at the Field House on the day of the Luncheon. — LS

New Bolton requests sheep producers' help in study

KENNETT SQUARE — Researchers at the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine have requested the help of eastern Pennsylvania sheep producers in implementing a study to improve veterinary services to the sheep industry

The study will address the foremost health problems in eastern sheep—parasites, nutrition and economics

In December 1978, University veterinarians, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association, distributed surveys to sheep producers and veterinarians in Pennsylvania

From the survey returns, flock management practices and veterinary services to the sheep industry were assessed. Findings indicate that both management and health care should be improved in several areas.

For the sheep industry to prosper, veterinary services and drug costs should be evaluated For example, the average costs for veterinary care in the state was $143 per year, or about $1.40 per sheep Cost of over-the-counter drugs averaged $88 per flock, or $1.32 per sheep

These expenditures did not correlate however, with decreasing death rates or culling rates Death rates remained about the same in flocks regardless of how much money was spent. These results indicate that not all expenditures are appropriate economically

Both producers and veterinarians are unaware of the services resulting in greatest returns to the producer in terms of such factors as survivability of lambs, highest growth rates or maximal conception rates. Parasites and worming can be used as an example

Greatest returns per dollar spent may be attained when lambs are wormed repeatedly at intervals of a certain number of weeks Worming more frequently may result in no further gain by lambs but greater costs Worming less frequently may save money but significantly depress rate of gain and result in diminished returns at time of sale.

Only 11 percent of producers determined parasite burdens with fecal examinations Worming sheep with little knowledge of degree of worm infestation, number of sheep affected or species of worm involved can be ineffective and costly.

Other examples could include benefits, i.e. returns over costs, from vaccinations, feed supplements and mastitis treatments.

Nutrition and feeding management were other areas needing further attention - Incidence of diseases usually prevented by proper feeding was relatively high. Stiff lamb disease was reported in 22 percent of flocks, and pregnancy disease in 16 percent of flocks

Since feed costs represent a large fraction of money spent in any livestock enterprise, improvement in feeding management in farm flocks should aim to improve health and maximize productivity Feeding programs which neglect diseases that are linked to a nutritional component are not likely to be the most economical in the long run

In the survey producers and veterinarians were asked to list the most pressing problems in the state sheep industry. Parasites were the number one problem according to 60 percent of producers and 70 percent of veterinarians.

To effectively treat parasite burdens in sheep, the worms should be characterized from that particular locale because species of worms, their life cycles and effective treatments vary with climate, geography and management practices.

Parasites have been studied intensively in Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain, and to some extent in western range areas of the US. Little work has been done in the East. So it is not surprising that parasites remain a problem in this area

Nutrition was listed as a major problem in Pennsylvania sheep by 25 percent of producers and 57 percent of veterinarians. The survey showed veterinarians were more aware of parasite-nutrition interactions within flocks. Any investigation into parasite control should encompass nutritional interactions.

As a result of the survey findings, a proposed study concerning sheep farms in southeastern Pennsylvania has been requested. The study will be funded in part by Agway, Inc., Syracuse, NY. It will examine parasite burdens, feeding practices and economics of farm flocks

The study will entail monthly visits to farms for 8 months, then one visit every 8 weeks for the remaining 4 months

During the first visit, thorough histories will be obtained on flock management, diseases, ewe and lamb performance and cost of maintaining the flock. Fecal samples will be collected from a representative number of sheep within each flock and parasites identified. Feeds will be sampled for nutrient analyses

Following visits will involve update of records, fecal samples and more feed analyses when feedstuffs are changed.

Flocks with any type of management, breed or size will be accepted. The sheep

Corn, soybean session set for Wednesday

NEWARK, Del. — Farmers and others interested in agriculture will have a chance to look at current research and extension efforts into improving the production of corn and soybeans at the upcoming Field Day at the University of Delaware's College of Agricultural Sciences.

The event will be held Wednesday morning, August 6, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the University's experimental farm on Route 896 in Newark.

The Field Day will consist of wagon tours of field demonstration plots, and will emphasize some of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station's most recent and innovative research efforts on behalf of corn, soybean, and turfgrass production in the state.

Wagons will leave the Agricultural Hall parking lot at 9:30 a.m. Researchers and extension personnel will be on hand to discuss their work as well as to lead the tours of the experimental plots.

New Bolton

should be confined for the day of the visits and owners should plan to spend about 2 hours with the researchers during the first visit, then perhaps one hour for remaining visits.

Identification of flocks will remain confidential and the study will be conducted at no cost to producers

Through this on-the-farm research, a profile of parasites infesting southeastern Pennsylvania sheep will be developed—species of parasites, relative numbers, seasonal changes. This information will allow researchers to plan and test strategic methods of eliminating the parasite problem.

Knowledge of nutrient contents of local feeds and pastures will allow them to formulate specific supplements necessary to lower feed costs while maintaining optimal nutrition and eliminating nutritional diseases. The economic relationship between parasites, feeding and disease with lamb growth, breeding efficiency and returns from sales of meat, wool and individual sheep will be studied This information will allow researchers to predict the potential benefits of veterinary services to flocks, and also to determine costs of feeding, vaccinations, wormings, etc , in relation to returns to the producer

CLARKSVILLE, Md. — The Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station will sponsor a statewide swine field day today at the University of Maryland research facility near Clarksville, Howard county.

Pork producers and other interested persons are invited to attend. The all-day educational session will run from 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Noon lunch will be available at moderate cost.

Field day coordinator is Thomas G. Hartsock, extension swine specialist and associate professor of animal science at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Hartsock reported that field day visitors will have the opportunity to select four 30-minute workshops from a total of seven listings.

Much of Saturday's program will be held in the shade of a big tent used Thursday for the farm family field day across the road at the University of Maryland agronomy-dairy forage research farm.

The field day site is located three miles northeast of Clarksville in central Howard county. Street address is 4234 Folly Quarter Road, Ellicott City.

LANCASTER — Supplies of fresh fruit this summer will be large.

USDA forecasts indicate this summer's production of early harvested noncitrus fruit (excluding dried prunes) will be slightly below last year's very large crops In addition, remaining supplies of fresh citrus fruit are sharply larger than a year ago. Thus, large supplies combined with a weak economy will moderate the expected seasonal increases in grower prices for fresh and processing fruit and in retail prices for fresh fruits.

Stocks of processed fruit are generally above a year ago, although smaller packs for a few crops and higher marketing costs likely will keep retail prices this summer above a year ago

Supplies of freestone peaches will be down only one percent from 1979, as large crops in northern states offset sharply smaller crops from the nine southern states

A 19 percent decline in peach production is indicated for both South Carolina and Georgia because of adverse weather this spring Production of clingstone peaches in California is expected to total four percent below the 1979 crop

Altogether, total U S peach production will be three percent smaller than last year's large crop

So far this year, the index of grower prices for fresh and processing fruit has averaged almost 13 percent lower than last year

As the supply of citrus fruits, apples, and strawberries declines during the summer, the index will advance but will still average below last year's high levels. The large supply of soft fruit and citrus will moderate the seasonal increase The index of consumer prices for fresh fruit has been moderately above a year ago and is expected to remain so because of continually increasing marketing costs

With the large supplies of summer fruit and a weakening general economy, the rate of increase in retail prices for fresh fruit is expected to slacken somewhat

Reflecting the larger 1979 pack, stocks of most major canned fruits on June 1 were sharply larger than last year's depleted levels

Nevertheless, smaller crops—particularly of clingstone peaches and apricots—have led to grower-packer agreements ensuring higher grower prices this year The 1980 canned fruit pack, particularly of peaches and fruit cocktail, will be smaller; however, with inventories up, the total supply of canned fruit for the coming marketing year will still be ample

Even with ample supplies, prices of canned fruit are expected to remain above year-ago levels, reflecting higher costs of raw products, sugar, processing, and distribution In response to good demand, wholesale prices of frozen strawberries have been considerably higher than a year ago

The smaller domestic pack in prospect and reduce imports from Mexico will further strengthen prices of frozen strawberries Current supplies of dried fruit are ample and prices are lower than last year

Fulton Grange meetings

OAKRYN — Fulton Grange No. 66 held their annual picnic on the Grange Hall grounds Monday evening with a large attendance Quoits, horseshoe pitching, volleyball, and other games were enjoyed by all.

Following the picnic the Master, Thomas C Galbreath, conducted a short business meeting. Clifford Holloway Jr. reported 46 people enjoyed the three-day trip to New England.

The Pennsylvania State Grange and Fulton Grange are sponsoring a public meeting for the local mushroom growers August 4, 8 p.m at the Fulton Grange Hall, Oakryn

Mrs. Clifford Holloway III reported 50 people attended the swim party and doggie roast at the home of Mr and Mrs. Jesse Wood July 25. The youth committee will hold a volleyball party Friday, August 15, 7 p m and Mrs Holloway will be in charge of refreshments

James Huber, Chairman of the Lancaster County Commissioners, will speak on 'Preservation of Farmland" at the next meeting of Fulton Grange August 11
